

Ambassador To Stockholm Back in U. S.

Coolness Rising
Over Sweden's
Position on War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coolness in U.S.-Swedish relations over the American role in Vietnam has prompted Washington to recall its ambassador to Stockholm for discussions.

Ambassador William Heath, whose life was recently threatened, will fly home Monday for an indefinite stay to review "all aspects of U.S.-Swedish relations," the State Department said Friday.

The department said "he will return to Stockholm in due course."

Officials acknowledged the recall reflects U.S. displeasure over relations with Sweden.

Prime Minister Tage Erlander said he told Heath Sweden wants to maintain as good relations as possible with the United States.

Heath

One incident apparently leading up to the recall occurred Feb. 21, when Sweden's education minister, Olof Palme, marched with other demonstrators opposed to the U.S. military campaign in Vietnam. The demonstrators also included North Vietnam's ambassador to Moscow.

Sources in Washington said Palme made a "one-sided and critical" speech asserting there is a legitimate civil war in Vietnam. The United States contends South Vietnam is the victim of aggression by North Vietnam.

No Formal Protest

The United States did not formally protest the Palme incident but the American Embassy in Stockholm made clear such behavior by a cabinet minister was considered highly inappropriate.

Sweden has been the scene of steadily increasing violent incidents and demonstrations over the past year related to the Vietnam issue, culminating with receipt of a letter threatening Heath's life. Police assigned a bodyguard to the American diplomat.

La Follette to Tell Of Political Hopes

MADISON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ervin C. La Follette, heir to one of Wisconsin's most celebrated political names, plans an announcement Monday which some observers say could place him in a race against Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

La Follette, Wisconsin's only Democratic constitutional officer, has scheduled a news conference at which he will disclose plans for his political future.

The 32-year-old attorney general is considered the strongest opponent the Democrats could put up against Knowles, should the Republican governor decide to seek re-election.

Knowles, 59, has said he will not make his decision public until after Wisconsin's April 2 presidential preference primary.

Third Term

Insiders expect the governor to seek re-election to a third term. He has been mentioned also as a possible candidate against Democratic Sen. Gaylord Nelson.

La Follette is the son of the late Robert La Follette Jr. and the grandson of the late Robert La Follette Sr., both of whom served in the U.S. Senate.

All 21 Miners Found Dead

The Search Ends

CALUMET, La. (AP) — The bodies of 21 men who perished in the caverns of a salt mine have been found and efforts were under way today to learn the cause of the fire that killed them.

The four-day search came to an end Friday. Sixteen bodies were found huddled together in a tunnel 3,000 feet from the mine shaft. The other five were located a few hours later. Officials for Cargill, Inc., which owns the mine did not disclose the exact spot.

The tragedy struck eight months after the Federal Bureau of Mines recommended a sister shaft be sunk to provide better ventilation, an escape route and various fire controls.

Sought Inspection

H. A. Schreckengost, a bureau official in Indianapolis, Ind., said the recommendations were made by A. M. Evans, a mining engineer from the Dallas suburb, after an "observation walk-through" last August.

In Minneapolis, W. R. Pearce, a Cargill vice president, said the company requested the inspection and that some recommendations were followed, with others "in the process of approval and implementation."

Jim Bowe, a public relations man for the mining company, added Friday night, "there was no specific suggestion in the entire observation which could have prevented the fire."

Raymond R. Ashby, a coal mine safety expert from Kentucky who was on the mine floor when the first 16 bodies were found, said the men apparently "died of carbon monoxide poisoning. They died a painless death. It was like lying down and going to sleep."

Ashby was one of the members of two six-man teams trained in mine rescue operations who worked at the mine site since their arrival Wednesday night.

Throughout the search operation, mine officials kept an optimistic air.

Cargill vice president, said, "It's an excellent sign that they are far away."

Barricade of Salt

His optimism was banked on a hunch the miners had thrown up a barricade of salt in an effort to seal themselves off from the fire in the timber-lined shaft.

Friends and relatives waited, hopes faltering as the long ordeal wore on. At the final announcement a mother collapsed on a cot, sobbing: "Oh my God, my son, my son!"

"I ain't got no brothers any more," a woman wailed.

Two women fainted. Some miners cried. Other workers simply removed their hard hats and lowered their heads.

The death announcement was read at Calumet, 14 miles to the north of the isolated mine, a relatively small venture but sunk into one of the world's biggest salt domes.

The Greek tanker washed onto the rocks Thursday night with a dead engine when the ship's fuel line broke and the engine room flooded, according to reports from the scene.

The vessel went aground in heavy weather as it brought 18,478 tons of Venezuelan oil—about six million gallons—from Aruba to West Palm Beach, Fla. The ship was under charter to a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Three of the 32 crewmen remained aboard although the rear deck was awash.

Slick Spreads

Four miles of beach were reported blackened as a slick five miles long and two miles wide spread before a southeast wind, threatening the island of Exuma and the snowy white beaches of Harbour Island.

The ship carried 1,600 tons of fuel in her own tanks.

Farther south U.S. Navy tugboats worked to pull the bow of another stricken tanker off a reef near San Juan harbor. The Liberian-registered tanker, the Ocean Prince, broke up on the reef last Sunday and has since spilled two million gallons of crude oil into an area 14 miles long.

Another Tanker Starts Spewing Oil Shoreward

Bahama's Beaches
Threatened as Sea Batters Ship

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A tide of thick, black oil washed onto the pink beaches of Eleuthera Island today from the hold of a tanker battered by seas up to 20 feet and grounded on a reef near Point James.

A tug stood by half a mile from the 555-foot General Colonis waiting for seas to diminish but the U.S. Coast Guard in Miami said there seemed little hope of saving the grounded vessel. Even if tugs could vank her off the rocks, the Coast Guard said, the tanker was likely to sink in deeper water.

One crewman was lost and presumed drowned after a rescue boat capsized in an oil slick Friday. He was identified as Stratos Mastrotainis, a Greek national, according to the Bahamas air sea service in Nassau.

Try to Halt Spread

Detergents to emulsify the oil were being flown from Florida and New York in an effort to keep the slick from spreading to all of the 100-mile seaward beaches on one of the most scenic islands of the Bahamas chain. The color of the beaches comes from rose coral dust mixed with the white sand.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Friday that Army Cpl. Michael W. Langer of Milwaukee has been killed in action in Vietnam. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Langer of Milwaukee.

"To exchange views on the situation of the party" following Gov. George Romney's withdrawal from the GOP presidential race.

A statement by the governor's press secretary, Leslie Slot, said:

"Gov. Rockefeller has asked a number of representative leaders of the party to meet with him in New York on Sunday. The purpose of the meeting is to exchange views on the situation of the party following Gov. Romney's withdrawal. It has been made clear to all participants that the purpose of the meeting is not to seek any commitments of support for the governor whose position of noncandidate remains unchanged."

Throughout Country

Slot said that between 20 and 25 GOP leaders from all parts of the country had been invited to the session. He declined to identify any of them or to state the time of the meeting on Sunday. He said the session would be held in Rockefeller's Fifth Avenue apartment.

Rockefeller has consistently said he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for president. However, he has indicated that he would accept a draft if a genuine movement developed within the GOP.

Final Vote Expected On Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than seven weeks of debate, the Senate has forged a civil rights bill which is ready for a final vote. A major provision would outlaw discrimination in the sale or rental of most of the nation's housing.

"I think we got as much in this field as we had any right to hope for," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Friday after the last of the amendments was voted. He termed the open-housing section an upset victory for its supporters.

The Senate approved the amended version 61 to 19, opening the way for a vote on passage Monday.

As the bill now stands, its principal provisions would: —Gradually prohibit discrimination in the sale and rental of housing. When fully effective Jan. 1, 1970, the ban would cover nearly 70 per cent of the nation's housing units.

Dr. Barnard Sees No Problem Deciding on Heart Recipient

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, the pioneer heart-transplant surgeon from South Africa, has told Congress only one standard should be applied—and only by doctors—in deciding who should receive a new heart: "Who is the sickest patient?"

Barnard testified before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee Friday that a proposed commission to study legal, ethical and social aspects of heart transplant operations is "an insult to your doctors."

"Who decides where the general should attack? The public?" Barnard asked the four senators. "No. I don't think the public is qualified to make the decision. The general is qualified to make the decision."

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., asked which of several patients should be chosen if just one donated heart is available.

"Operate on the patient who needs it most," Barnard replied.

Then Ribicoff outlined a hypothetical situation in which a doctor would have to choose one patient to receive a new heart from among a millionaire, a senator, an industrialist and a laborer.

"Who is Sickest?"

"I've just explained it to you," Barnard said. "Who is the sickest patient?"

The commission idea was proposed by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

Discussing the proposal with the Cape Town surgeon, senators argued that new problems have been created with the advent of such expensive operations—that only a limited number of persons could be saved by heart transplants.

But Barnard, maintaining such decisions have always been up to the doctor, replied: "None of these problems are new problems. You can't tell me one new problem."

Barnard said it is up to the doctor to decide when to remove a heart from a donor—as he did from two accident victims in South Africa.

"Why do we have to have new definitions of death, or commissions to tell us when a patient is dead? We doctors have done that for years," he said.

Barnard has performed two heart transplant operations. His first patient, grocer Louis Washkansky, died after 18 days, but his second, retired dentist Philip Blaiberg is still alive after receiving his new heart on Jan. 2.

6 Feared Dead In Crash Near Chicago Airport

CHICAGO (AP) — Edward H. Litchfield, board chairman of SCM Corp. was killed and five other persons, including members of his family, were believed to have perished Friday night when their two-engine plane plunged into fog-shrouded Lake Michigan while coming in for a landing.

The body of Litchfield, 53, of Coudersport, Pa., a former chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, was recovered at midmorning today five miles off Meigs Field, Chicago's lakefront airport.

The crew of the Coast Guard boat that recovered the body did not report sighting any wreckage of the plane or other bodies.

Others aboard the plane were Litchfield's wife, Mary, 42; his mother, Ethel, 81; their children, Edward, 10, and DeForest, 4, and the pilot, James

Infantry Smashes Reds Near Da Nang

SAIGON (AP) — Pouring out of a sheet of machine-gun fire from advancing armored personnel carriers, U.S. infantrymen tore into Communist troops along the coastal lowlands below Da Nang today.

First reports said 85 enemy soldiers had been killed, with the fighting continuing nine miles northwest of the provincial capital of Tam Ky.

Artillery and dive-bombers joined men of the U.S. American Division in the onslaught.

American casualties were not disclosed under a U.S. Command policy of withholding such information while a battle continues.

Earlier, Communist gunners sent 40 mortar rounds into night defensive positions of American Division troops in the same area. One U.S. soldier was killed and 25 wounded.

Saigon Attacks
Communist mortarmen also renewed their harassing attacks on Saigon after several nights of quiet. Three rounds slammed into a police dependents' housing area in the slums of southern Saigon. Four civilians were killed and 20 wounded.

Viet Cong troops shelled four other South Vietnamese military posts on the outskirts of Saigon. Casualties at two of the installations were not reported. At the third, spokesmen said there were none, but a quantity of ammunition went up in flames. At the fourth post, casualties were said to be light.

Heavy fighting was reported for the second day in a row along the eastern section of the demilitarized zone near Dong Ha, a supply center for other bases along the frontier.

South Vietnamese headquarters said government infantrymen killed 50 Communist troops Friday and captured 21 weapons and 100 rounds of rockets and mortars. Nine South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and six wounded, a spokesman said.

A task force of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen battled 500 Communists for seven hours in the same general area Thursday and reported killing 164 enemy soldiers. In that fight, 16 Marines were killed and 113 wounded. South

100-Pound Object Plunges Into Home

KENOSHA (AP) — Naval air officials say a projectile which plunged through a roof and into a bedroom moments after a man left the room Friday was a practice bomb rack which dropped from a plane during a training flight.

None of the three persons in the Charles Horton home was injured when the object, weighing approximately 100 pounds, tore a four-foot hole in the roof causing an estimated $600 damage.

Officials traced the origin of the three-foot object to a plane which had flown from Glenview Naval Air Station near Chicago.

Vietnamese casualties were reported light.

In other action in the northernmost provinces, U.S. Air Force B52 bombers pounded suspected Communist positions near Khe Sanh and Hue, both now considered likely targets for a major enemy assault.

The eight-engine Stratofortress mounted two raids today near Khe Sanh and struck four times Friday night and today within nine miles of Hue, an area they have been hitting regularly in the last several days.

U.S. commanders have been watching for several months for a Communist effort to seize the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh, in South Vietnam's northwest corner, to clear the way for a push into the northern provinces.

All-weather Navy A6 Intruders flew through continuing northeast monsoon weather over North Vietnam Friday and, guided by radar, struck a cargo transfer and storage area 13 miles southwest of Haiphong for the first time in the war. A damage assessment was not available for the relatively secondary target, listed in U.S. reports as the "Ninh Giang industrial area."

Air Force Learns How to Destroy Its Secret Files Cleanly

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.

(AP) — The Air Force has learned how to burn its classified documents without polluting the air—much to the satisfaction of the El Paso County Health Department.

There were complaints the Air Force was violating an anti-air pollution ordinance when it burned secret files and other documents at the Aerospace Defense Command headquarters here.

A health officer said his investigation showed a gas furnace was being overloaded with classified material. "Now that the personnel know how to use the equipment, we aren't getting any complaints," he said.

He said Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., deserve "the lion's share of the credit."

They were the principal sponsors of an open-housing proposal that would have covered virtually all of the nation's housing.

Communist Reformists Push Novotny's Ouster

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new reformist leaders appear on the verge of ousting old-line Communist President Antonin Novotny.

A party group in the army's general staff—in a move unprecedented in any Communist country—issued a public demand Friday for the resignation of Novotny and other top orthodox officials.

The army chiefs blame Novotny for covering up the alleged corruption case of Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna, who defected to the United States Wednesday.

Western analysts said the Sejna case paved the way for reformist leaders under newly elected party head Alexander Dubcek to speed up personnel changes they otherwise would have tackled more cautiously.

by the compromise is for individual homeowners who handle the sale or rental of their property themselves, rather than using a real-estate broker.

"This Sejna affair was a god-send for the new leaders," one Western diplomat observed.

Sejna, a top functionary in the Czech defense department, is believed to be the highest military man from Eastern Europe ever to defect to the West. He was a key figure in the abortive attempt last January to thwart the removal of Novotny as party leader.

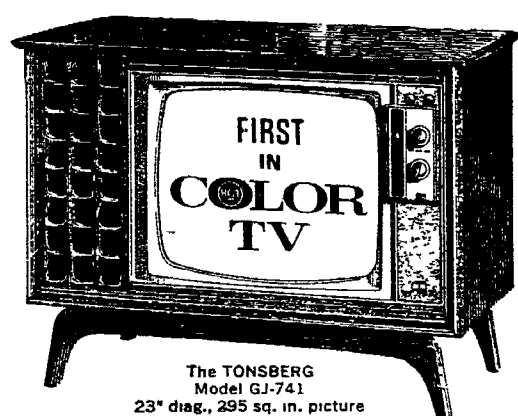

The general is also implicated in an illegal deal with a farming cooperative that netted $42,000 through the sale of grass seed to peasants. And in an interview with a Prague newspaper today, Novotny's son portrayed Novotny as a heavy-spending woman-chaser who had trouble making ends meet on his salary of $1,200 a month—five times that of the average industrial worker.

Novotny was removed from his party leader's post by liberal critics eager to push through economic reforms and a more democratic approach to things.

Nixon on the Riot Report

Presidential candidate Richard Nixon's reaction to the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders is disappointing.

Mr. Nixon said that "one of the major weaknesses of the President's commission is it in effect blames everybody for the riots except the perpetrators of the riots . . . I think the commission has put undue emphasis on the idea that we are in effect a racist society, white racists versus black racists. I think this talk tends to divide people, to build a wall between people, doesn't help in breaking down prejudice. What we need is more talk about reconciliation, more talk about how we're going to work together."

It may be that a positive approach to any problem is the best kind. But any approach which proceeds from illusion is not likely to succeed. For too long in the United States, liberals in particular have labored under the delusion that this is one nation indivisible. In fact, as any study of Negro ghettos shows and as the violence last summer demonstrated, there is a very real danger of hard division in this nation that could have far-reaching and appalling results.

The Commission's report did stress that violence is not the way to reforms and that law and order must be maintained. But while Mr. Nixon recommends that "we've got to make it clear to potential rioters that in the event something starts next summer that the law will move in with adequate force to put down rioting, looting, at the first indication of it," the report recognized that basic causes of riots must be eliminated or we shall have National Guard troops stationed indefinitely in every major city in the nation. In the long run it is virtually impossible to put down urban guerrilla warfare with force unless the city itself is destroyed. The lessons we are learning in Vietnam could be applied to our own cities.

Perhaps it would be too much to expect Mr. Nixon to agree with the report of a commission appointed by the man he expects to oppose in the election next November. But we are more inclined to follow the suggestion made by retiring Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John Gardner that "we must begin with a massive resolve on the part of the great, politically moderate majority of whites and blacks — to transform destructive emotion into constructive action. The time has come when the full weight of community opinion, white and Negro, should be felt against those within their own ranks who hate and destroy."

Whether he meant it or not, Mr. Nixon's statement implied that he felt the riots were caused by black violence alone. It is a two-way street, as the Commission report ably pointed out.

Packaged Educational Programs

The United States Office of Education has announced that next summer it will be possible for states to submit single applications for administrative funds under Titles I, II, III and V of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act instead of one application for each separate program. The effect is to put far more authority over the uses of the funds in the hands of state educational officials.

Although it can be argued that there should be a federal accounting for the uses of federal funds, the trend toward block grants to states rather than individual applications is a far more workable policy of federal and state cooperation. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is also proceeding along this line. Not only is the paper work and red tape cut back; funds can be used as they are needed and certainly officials closer to the problems are more qualified to determine how they should be used.

The packaging of administrative funds under ESEA is the first step in proposed packaging programs, according to Nolan Estes, USOE associate commissioner for elementary and secondary education. Next will come the packaging of programs themselves which Estes says will result from "planning for the most effective use of resources on target areas." However, it may be that such more flexible programs will need Congressional legislation and the Council of Chief State School Officers has asked "the cooperation of USOE in urging the Congress to enact legislation to authorize such packaging by law."

Certainly the trend away from the concentration of all authority in Washington is a healthy one. And at long last it has become a bipartisan matter.

Latin America Still Ripe for Revolution

The warning from Roman Catholic missionaries that revolution is imminent in Guatemala once more points up the failures thus far of many Latin American nations to eradicate the evils that encourage communism. Next to the jungles of Southeast Asia, there is probably no better place in the world for the eventual success of guerilla warfare than in much of Latin America.

The Alliance for Progress set an annual employment growth rate goal of 5.5 per cent for Latin America during the 1960's but while many Latin American countries have achieved about 80 per cent of the target growth, this does not mean that 4/5 of the employment target has been fulfilled. P.N. Rosenstein-Rodan, professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, states flatly that "at the rate Latin America has been going in the last five years, even another decade would not achieve the peaceful revolution which is the ultimate objective of the Alliance for Progress." And meanwhile time is running out.

Members of the Organization of American States, with the exception of Mexico, have taken firm action against Castro's efforts to export violent revolution to many Latin American countries. Foreign ministers have condemned Communist efforts and the Cuban government was excluded from the O.A.S. Inter-American Defense Board on the grounds that adherence to Marxism-Leninism was incompatible with the aims of the O.A.S. Diplomatic relations with Cuba and all trade and shipping were broken off by all O.A.S. members except Mexico in 1964 but it is impossible to halt the Cuban propaganda that blares from Latin American radios in at least four languages.

Although certainly Cuban revolutionaries continue to inspire guerrilla activities in Latin America despite the death of Che Guevara, the real impetus behind such activities is the misery of the peasant. He has little or nothing to lose but his life and he may lose that in any case. Cuba stands out to the peasant, not only as an example of where a guerrilla war overthrew an oppressive government but often as an example of economic success. Communist oppression of course is overlooked. But Cuba's ability to increase its economic growth in spite of the O.A.S. boycott and no help at all from the United States must be regarded as something of a success, at least by the peasant.

It has been pretty well demonstrated in the last half century that a political philosophy is difficult to export to another nation or at least it must suffer some changes on the way. Communism certainly is as difficult to transfer as is democracy.

But some mistaken American policies in Latin America have managed to imply that democracy is a fat cat regime which most Latin Americans have had too much of while communism has appeal for the poor and the despairing. Under such conditions — and in a world where the peasant now realizes how badly off he is — the chance of more wars of national liberation is great and Latin America is a prime place for them to occur.

This will prove a much more satisfactory arrangement than the present building, which is entirely too small to accommodate the wants of the Institution.

New Hampshire is not a very big state, about 180 miles long by an average 50 miles wide. You can drive anywhere in the state in three hours. And it doesn't carry a lot of political weight; only four electoral votes.

Yet all eyes are on the Granite State as it holds the nation's first presidential primary of the year. Political pundits and pollsters have traveled the length and breadth of the state for months, following the campaigners, probing the political plasticity of its natives.

And with last-minute drop-outs and write-ins, the stage was set for the first big dramatic production of the 1968 presidential year, on March 12.

ROMNEY DROPS OUT

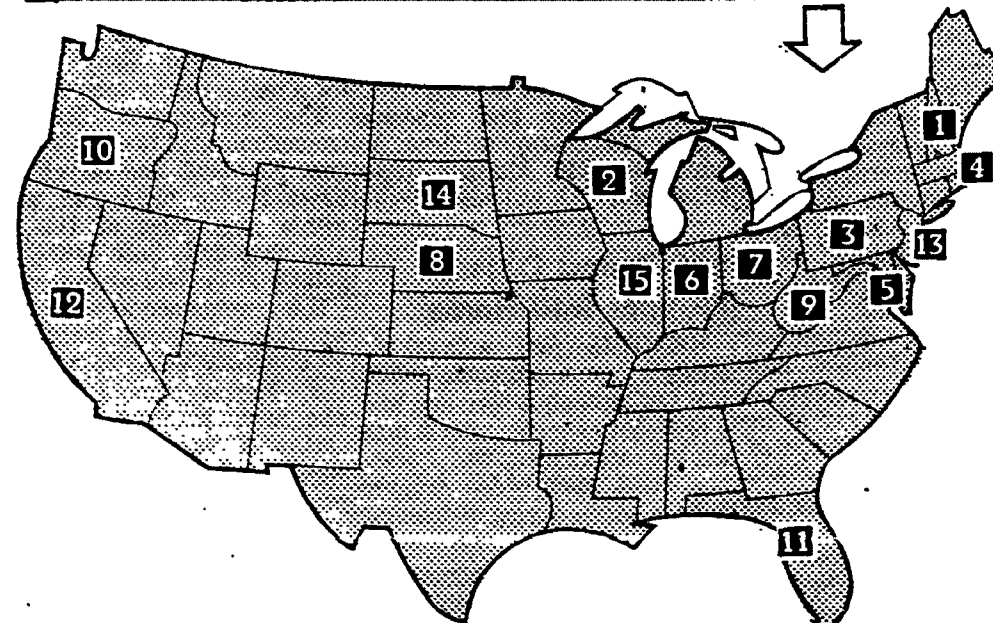

Interest was primarily on the rivalry between campaigning Republicans, the opposition party. Polls for the past months showed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon far in the GOP lead — and they apparently convinced Michigan Gov. George Romney. Romney dropped out of the presidential race altogether barely two weeks before the New Hampshire primary.

But suddenly New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller leaped into the spotlight vacated by Romney. Though the Republican governor is not on the New Hampshire primary ballot and had previously declared he was not a presidential candidate, he announced recently he would accept a draft for the nomination. This took on added significance when Romney dropped out, and a Rockefeller write-in was stepped up in New Hampshire.

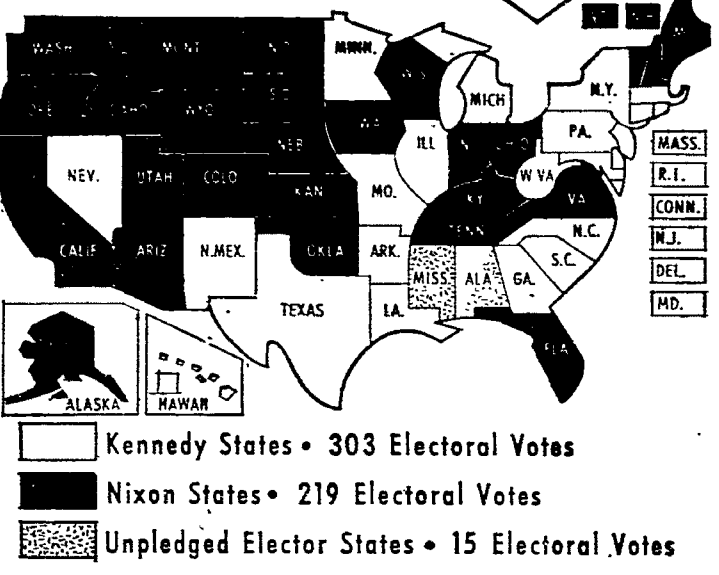

From New Hampshire, the candidates aim at the Wisconsin primary, the nation's second, on April 2. It's followed by a primary in Pennsylvania April 23 and in Massachusetts

ELECTION 1964

April 30. The District of Columbia, Indiana and Ohio hold their primaries May 7, followed by Nebraska and West Virginia on May 14, Oregon on May 17 and Florida on May 28. California, New Jersey and South Dakota voters go to the primary polls June 4 and the final presidential primary is June 11 in Illinois.

In addition to these 15 presidential primaries in which the ballot gives the voter some way to indicate his choice for the nomination, two other states, New York and Alabama, provide for primary election of national convention delegates. In neither state, however, do the presidential preferences of the would-be delegates appear on the ballot.

TWO KINDS OF VOTES

There are two kinds of presidential primaries. They are sometimes held separately and sometimes one in conjunction with the other.

One is the presidential preference poll in which names of prospective nominees are printed on the ballot and the voter may mark his preference. These polls may or may not be binding on the convention delegates from the state.

The other is the delegate election in which voters choose the actual delegates to go to the national conventions. This year, the Republican convention is to be held in Miami Aug. 5 and the Democrats gather in Chicago three weeks later.

Wisconsin Report

Maier's Career in Legislature Is Recalled in Current Campaign

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Twenty years ago in a torrid gymnasium at Madison the Democratic state convention was heading for adjournment when a young Milwaukee delegate sat down at the press table and asked a reporter with whom he had a slight acquaintance:

Wyngaard

"How did you like the platform?"

The reporter was polite, but non-committal, as the circumstances appeared to require. He was there to report the event, not to judge it.

But the young politician pursued the subject, and soon gave away his purpose.

Bears Protected

PRAGUE (AP) — Some 350 bears roam the Central Slovak forests at present, which is 10 times more than in 1932 when their protection became a law, the news agency CTK reported.

Editor's Note

People's Forum letters should be kept as short as possible and, in no case exceed 500 words in length. The editor reserves the right to shorten letters and to delete inflammatory or libelous statements. Letters must be signed and include the address of the sender. A pseudonym may be used, and the writer's signature withheld, if he has a sufficient reason.

"I wrote it," he said confidently and proudly.

The incident probably would not have lingered in the memory, except that the convention was the typically uproarious gathering of the Democratic Party in those days, a party that had little hope of ruling in Wisconsin but was a kind of patronage appendage of the national administration.

DIDN'T LIKE TRUMAN

At one point the delegates became so unruly and rebellious about the idea of endorsing President Truman for reelection, that the chairman arbitrarily adjourned the proceedings. Unable to find the gavel in his excitement, he grabbed a water glass on the podium, pounded it hard, and smashed it to smithereens.

The eager young man was Henry Maier, later a member of the legislature, and for the last eight years the mayor of Milwaukee.

No more proud and sensitive politician has been produced in Wisconsin in recent times.

The 20 years since he started in politics have brought him considerable success. He is one of the best known mayors of the country, having produced a book on municipal administration, among other things. Big city mayors generally are not literary types. But Maier is well-educated and obviously proud of his literary attainments. Perhaps there are few aspects of his work that he enjoys more than the opportunity for elaborate phrase-making and ringing rhetoric that the public platform gives him as the leading figure in the biggest city of Wisconsin.

SHOWS SOME ANXIETY

But the comparatively youthful mayor of today shows much of the anxiety for recognition, the resentment of lack of appreciation, the self-consciousness that some feel approaches conceit, of the apprentice politician who wanted a veritable stranger as long ago as 1948 to know that he was one of the intellectual leaders of the Democratic Party.

Most observers are likely to agree that the mayor will win another term in April. But the election campaign is likely also to be a bitter and demanding one, nevertheless. Milwaukee is a troubled city. In all fairness, its principal officer has one of the most difficult and enervating jobs in Wisconsin public life. For Maier, one of the reasons for the wear and tear is an ineradicable sensitivity that his colleagues recognized more than a decade ago in the legislature.

Maier became the Democratic minority leader, which like some kinds of music, sounded better than it was. The Democrats had only a half dozen state senators. But it gave him a forum. He spoke for the minority in a period of overwhelming Republican control of the legislature and the state.

SOME NOT SURPRISED

Correspondents who note today that Maier is having an angry feud with the Milwaukee press, claiming that it is erecting a "paper curtain" between his services and his constituents, are not surprised by the development. The mayor was doing the same thing when he was a senator. He once sent a letter of bitter complaint to the editor of a newspaper who employed one of the most responsible and most respected and best loved of the correspondents at Madison. Nothing much happened. Editors are not inclined to take the word of the publicity seeking politician over the reporter they hired and trained.

But the memory of the episode raises the question: Could this ambitious man be more successful with resiliency and understanding, not only in his city hall, but also possibly in a higher office some day?

Ambulance Is Badly Needed in Kaukauna

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I have never written a letter to a newspaper in my life until now, but I feel so strongly about the need for ambulance service in the city of Kaukauna I cannot refrain from expressing my personal experiences in this area. Perhaps there are some unanswered questions which I cannot deal with but my purpose is to show there is a serious need.

Has your husband or wife been suddenly seized with a heart attack, suffered an asthma seizure gasping for breath to just stay alive? Or your child swallowed poison? Or the baby been found lying face down in the bathtub? Immediately there is a mad scramble for help. There's a frantic call for a doctor and the ambulance and a wild race to the hospital to save a life.

These things I know something about for I've been involved many, many times in such situations both at work and for a member of my family. Doubtless few have used the Kaukauna ambulance more often than I have for a member of my family. I know the speed with which calls have been answered and the comfort I have felt knowing my husband could be swiftly, comfortably and safely moved to a hospital where he could get immediate emergency care.

The above is why I consented to serve on the citizen's ambulance fund committee —

GARD — I believe in this project and I know the necessity for such service.

Perhaps people have forgotten how the first ambulance was bought. I'm sure all those union men who collected and baled tons and tons of waste paper haven't forgotten. What's so bad about asking for a dollar from each citizen for something that stands ready to serve each of us? Every week one or two envelopes come to my house for some cause — much of which may never serve me directly. This ambulance I may need before this gets into print. We can't afford not to have it!

This 16-year-old ambulance is ready to fall to pieces. Suppose it won't run when you or yours need it so badly it may mean the difference between life and death! We of Kaukauna have taken this service for granted because it has always been there to use. We haven't asked ourselves one question about it — we just call for it and expect it to be there.

It is my sincere wish that everybody gets behind this project and makes it possible to have a decent, comfortable and safe ambulance service for all of us. A dollar is no more than a couple cocktails, a fish lunch, a few packages of cigarettes. If we can afford these things, we can afford a dollar to insure that our emergencies can be met.

Teens With Alcoholic Parent Need Courage, Information

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old girl who hopes you will continue to print letters about alcoholism and the harm it does. This is what happened at our house last week.

When I got home from school Mom was in bed, which was not unusual. At dinner time she didn't get up and I figured she was sleeping off a hangover so I started to fix supper for Dad and us kids. Dad came home at six and went in to check Mom.

He came out of the bedroom white as a ghost. "Mom's dead," he said and went to the phone and called the police. When he returned to the bedroom he yelled, "She moved — call the police and tell them not to come. Call the doctor instead."

Well, the police came anyway, and so did the doctor and so did the newspapers, and it made the front page and everybody is talking about it. My sister and I can't hold up our heads at school and my father is ready to change jobs because everybody at the garage where he works is making jokes. People are going to talk about this forever and there's nothing we can do about it. Please print my letter as another example of how alcoholism hurts the whole family. — S-4

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday we had dinner at my cousin's house. She had her Christmas cards still pinned to the dining room draperies. I asked her if she planned to carry the Christmas spirit into Easter. "Oh," she sighed, "I can't throw the cards out until I record the names of the senders."

When I asked what that was all about, she explained that the record is for next year. Her reply was, "We send cards only to people who have sent cards to us the previous year." I then asked if she ever sent a card to a person just because she wanted to wish him well. She replied, "Are you kidding? The whole thing is a pain in the ankle. We send cards because we have to — and so does everyone else."

This is such a hardboiled approach it made me wonder how much of the world operates this way. What do you think? — V-2

DEAR V-2: I think there are an awful lot of people whose motivation for Christmas giving is the same as your cousin's. Too much of Christmas has become a commercial racket. How much better if people would treat one another more kindly all through the year.

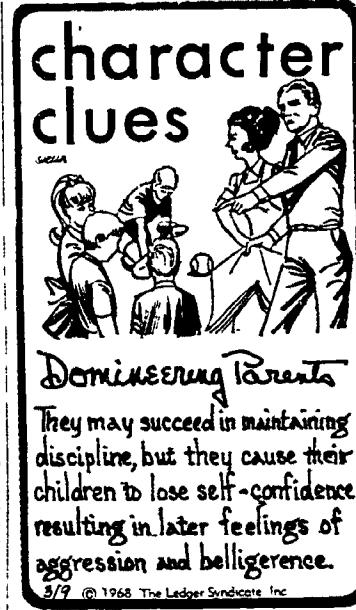

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married my husband four years ago (my first, his second) I was prepared for the problems that come with step-children. I thought I could handle anything. Now I'm not so sure.

My husband's first wife has the boys (ages from eight to 15) but every weekend they come to our place. They are spoiled, babyish and undisciplined. I love children but not when they behave like wild animals.

Lately my husband has been talking about taking the boys on a trip next summer. I am dreading it. Is there something wrong with me? — A.Z.

DEAR A. Z.: Step-children have busted up more second marriages than anything I know of. All children respond to love and kindness. If you want your marriage to work, dig in your heels and learn to get along with those children. Easy? Of course not. It takes maturity, saintly patience and

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever tried to save time by soaking yourself in the bathtub while setting your hair. Just prop your mirror on the faucets.

Heloise

Most tubs have a ledge that will hold small personal things. I think this is quite relaxing and timesaving.

Mrs. S. J. Fantasia
Honey Chile — I just love you — I'll bet you're the first woman who ever thought of soaking her tight muscles in hot water while trying to do something else. You're the greatest. Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My kitchen door was ugly looking as the paint was peeling, so here's what I did.

I bought some burlap in a color to match the rest of my kitchen and cut it the size of the door, bound the edges of the burlap with a matching bias tape, then tacked it on the door.

I removed the doorknob and cut a small hole in the burlap for the shaft to go through, then replaced the knob.

This let the burlap lay nice and smooth. It not only looks attractive, but it makes an excellent kitchen bulletin board.

Dear Heloise: Here's another idea to put those covers from spray cans to use: Save them until summer for the children to use in their sandpile or play pool. My grandchildren had a wonderful time with them last year making mudpies and building castles.

Dear Heloise:

My husband came up with a good idea which others might like to use.

He keeps a small magnifying glass in the glove compartment of our car to use for reading road maps when we're traveling.

It sure has been handy for me since I'm the one who usually has to check the map.

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise: I hope you've received all the thought waves of thanks I've sent you!

Ceebie Gee
I have you tuned in, hon, and you're indeed welcome.

Heloise
Dear Heloise: Yesterday as I reached into the medicine cabinet, I knocked a bottle of iodine into the sink. The bottle broke and iodine spattered on my blouse and skirt.

Is there any way I can remove the stains?

"Spotty"

Soak the garments in cold water over night. If stain remains, rub with detergent and wash in warm suds. Or moisten with water, then hold over a team from a boiling tea kettle.

Alcohol when diluted with two parts water may be applied with a cotton pad and left to soak.

Stains which are left may be soaked for 15 minutes with a cotton pad that has been dipped in a solution of one tablespoon of sodium thiosulfate to a pint of water. Rinse well. Repeat if necessary.

Always be sure to test a hidden spot first on the fabric.

Heloise
Sure was. And great, too, may I say? Thanks.

Love, Heloise

Sheinwold Consider Hand, Not One Suit

At three notrump your object is to win nine tricks. When the time comes to score the hand, the only question is how many tricks you won in all, not how many you won in this or that suit. South missed this obvious point when he played the hand shown today.

West led the ten of spades, and dummy's jack held the first trick, much to South's delight. He led the ace of diamonds from dummy to see how the suit would break — and he didn't like what he saw.

It was now impossible to capture West's queen of diamonds. When West got in with his queen he switched to clubs, and East ran five tricks to defeat the contract. West had to get out of the way with his queen of clubs, but he was up to the play, and South was down two.

Should Overtake
South's contract didn't depend on winning three spade tricks. He should overtake dummy's jack of spades at the first trick in order to lead the nine of diamonds for a finesse. This play guarantees the contract.

As the cards lie, the finesse wins. South continues with another diamond finesse, taking seven diamonds, two spades and the ace of hearts. If the diamond finesse happened to lose, South would take one trick less, but his contract would still be safe since East cannot attack clubs safely.

Third Reich Is Never to Be Forgotten

BY TV SCOUT

10-11 (Channel 11) 8:30-9:30 (Channel 9) — The finale in the three-part adaptation of William Shirer's The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich is an articulate depiction of the growing eccentricities of Adolf Hitler which led to the eventual destruction of his empire. The overall premise of what the Germans did to the Germans, rather than harping on the over-used brutalities, is effectively brought out with particular emphasis on the military and their complete dependency on the whims of Hitler even though the generals were well aware of the disaster that must result. There is here, too, easy reference to our own times and some people who can compare with the egomaniacal spellbinder. The unusual ending is most touching and will be remembered for a long time. (C)

Actor Tom Ewell Plays Harried Pop Since 1967

Comedy 'Impossible Years' Tuesday Night At AHS-West on Variety Theater Program

Actor Tom Ewell — the man with the sober face and comedy lines — has been setting audiences a-roaring with laughter in "The Impossible Years" since June 1967.

This is the date he began acting the role of the harried father of two rambunctious teenage daughters in the summer theaters of the Eastern seaboard. Now the "straw hat" hit is coming to the Fox Cities in late winter — next Tuesday, to be exact, with Tom Ewell still the harried pop.

Under the Variety Theater banner, Appleton Gallery of Arts is bringing the three-act comedy to Appleton High School-West stage. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. and tickets are available at Heid's Music Store.

Ewell has been a highly successful and popular comedian on stage, screen and television for more than 15 years. He was a busy, if not too successful, actor for quite a few years before that until he reached stardom and instant popularity as the summer bachelor in "The Seven Year Itch."

This play ran for three years straight after its 1952 New York opening. Since then, actor Ewell has played innumerable starring roles in a succession of comedy hits. "Life with Father," "Take Her, She's Mine," "Never Too Late," "Tunnel of Love," "Thurber Carnival" are the names of several.

On the screen, he acted opposite the late Marilyn Monroe in the film version of "The Seven Year Itch," and he has appeared in such other well-remembered movies as "Adam's Rib," "A Life of Her Own," "American Guerrilla in the Philippines," "Mr. Music," "Finders Keepers" and "Lost in Alaska."

Mauldin Infantryman

Starring with David Wayne in "Up Front," Ewell helped bring to the screen the humor of Bill Mauldin's infantrymen at war with the U.S. Army — and with such acclaim that they also starred in a sequel, "Willie and Joe Back at the Front," and also "The Lieutenant Wore Skirts" and "The Girl Can't Help It."

On television, Ewell is best remembered for his own "The Tom Ewell Show," in which, beleaguered by women, he portrayed a real-estate man harassed by being the only male in a household comprising his wife, mother-in-law, three daughters, a female dog and a female bird.

Tom Ewell was born Yewell Tompkins in Owensboro, Ky., and under the influence of his lawyer-father, and lawyer grandfathers was originally bound for a career in the law. But after his undergraduate days and a first year of study at the University of Wisconsin, during which he had dabbled in student-dramatics, he decided that he wanted larger and better-it arenas to work in than law courts. He and a fellow-student, Dor Ameche, set forth for theatrical careers in New York. They both took a bit of time to succeed in these ca-

On the other hand, if the second player draws a blank peanut, the first player, having drawn a No. 5 peanut, wins the blank peanut, so he then has two peanuts and the second player has none.

If each player draws a No. 5 peanut, or if each draws a blank peanut, both must return those peanuts to the sack. A player captures the peanut of his opponent only by drawing a No. 5 peanut immediately before or after the blank was drawn.

When no peanuts remain in the sack, the player who has accumulated the greater number of them is the winner. The game having ended, the peanuts should be eaten.

His discouragements were enough to drive him back to law, but they didn't. He spent the first three years learning his craft in stock companies, and then landed his first Broadway assignment. It was a small part but in a play that had a moderately good run, "They Shall Not Die," a political-documentary play about the celebrated case of the Scottsboro Boys.

There followed short-lived failure after failure — 28 plays in all that ail ran with thudding brevity.

In between, Ewell managed to eke out food-and-rent money in such jobs that were easy to obtain and easy to abandon — and left him time for seeking out more acting opportunities — as demonstrator of a patented paring knife, dishwasher, elevator operator, street photographer, cigar-counter salesman, door-to-door salesman of miscellaneous items.

Once when he got a leading role in a musical, 20 solid citizens of Owensboro came to New York to see their local boy make good. Within a week of the opening they could have seen Ewell no longer behind the footlights, but behind a counter at Macy's selling toys.

Some of these flops were distinguished, if unsuccessful, enterprises. One was Thornton Wilder's "The Merchant of Yonkers" in 1938, which turned up 17 years later as "The Matchmaker" — and a hit and then again as a musical in 1964 as "Hello, Dolly."

Joining the Navy in World War II as an apprentice seaman, Ewell saw action in the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean, and emerged from his service as a lieutenant (j.g.). Soon afterward he crashed into his first part in a play that ran rather well — "The Apple of His Eye" in 1946. It ran 15 weeks, his steadiest stage employment to that time.

But it was a harbinger of his having turned the corner. His next engagement was in Norman Krassna's "John Loves Mary," which not only ran a solid year on Broadway but brought Ewell enthusiastic attention from critics, as well as a Donaldson Award, a Clarence Derwent Award and a citation in Variety's poll of drama critics on best performances of the year.

Tom Ewell was born Yewell Tompkins in Owensboro, Ky., and under the influence of his lawyer-father, and lawyer grandfathers was originally bound for a career in the law. But after his undergraduate days and a first year of study at the University of Wisconsin, during which he had dabbled in student-dramatics, he decided that he wanted larger and better-it arenas to work in than law courts. He and a fellow-student, Dor Ameche, set forth for theatrical careers in New York. They both took a bit of time to succeed in these ca-

Long Session Likely

Reorganization Report To Come Before Board

OSHKOSH — An afternoon and inspection of Pleasant Acres, coupled with a full agenda to tackle what may necessitate a two day session of the Winnebago County Board on March 19 and 20.

Dorothy Propp, county clerk, said the slate of items will require a 1½ day session and possibly a full two day meeting.

Headed for deliberation by the 47 supervisors is the reorganization committee's proposal for an executive committee, the highway department's annual report.

Also, the new sanitary ordinance, which was recommended by the county zoning committee, will face the board members who will review its provisions and then either reject or adopt it.

The reorganization committee was created by the board last April and since then members have met with the 15 standing committees of the county, distributed questionnaires to the committees to seek the problem areas in local government.

In October, the committee was authorized to proceed with its executive committee study.

The committee recently met with the judiciary committee and incorporated several suggestions by the committee into its overall proposal.

Along with a resolution to begin an executive committee in Winnebago County, the reorganization committee, headed by Supv. Hibbard Engler, Oshkosh, will submit a report.

A review of the provisions of the required sanitary code will most likely require considerable time, but it is not expected to give trouble since many of its provisions follow minimum state requirements.

The annual report of the county highway department covers the department's whole operation during the past year, according to Robert Graf, highway commissioner.

The afternoon of March 19 will be tied up by an inspection tour of Pleasant Acres. Supv. Virginia Nolan, chairwoman of the institutions committee, said she wanted the present supervisors to tour the building, since they were the ones responsible for authorizing its construction.

The organizational meeting of the county board is in April, when new supervisors will take their seats.

Appleton Man Bound Over in Store Burglary

Judge Reduces Roger Panko's Bond to $1,500

Roger L. Panko, 229½ N. Richmond St., after a preliminary hearing Friday, was bound over to Circuit Court for the entering of a plea to a charge of burglarizing Hauert's Pet and Garden Store, 604 W. College Ave., on Feb. 23.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, who presided at the hearing, denied a motion by Panko's court-appointed attorney to dismiss the charge but Keller reduced Panko's bond from $2,500 to $1,500.

Ronald Lom, 36, 817½ W. Harris St., testified that he was with Panko at several W. College Avenue taverns the night of Feb. 23. He said that Panko left him for about 45 minutes at 11 p.m.

Foot Through Door

Lom, who said he was a friend of Panko's, testified that when Panko again met him, Panko said he had just "robbed a place." On another question by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, Lom quoted Panko as saying he had "put his foot through a window."

However, Lom later testified that Panko "always said things like that" and that he never believed him. At one point, following evasive answers to many of Schaefer's questions, Judge Keller agreed with the district attorney that Lom was a hostile witness.

Lom, during the course of testimony, said that Panko paid for three six packs of beer with change. James Hauert, 1108 W. Harris St., owner of the burglarized shop, earlier testified that $16.35 in change was among the $27.57 taken during the break-in Feb. 23.

Lom, during cross examination, stated that when Panko met him after they were separated the night of Feb. 23, he (Panko) was drunk.

Firemen Used Axes Friday afternoon at the J. H. Jensen residence, 1801 W. Butte des Morts Beach Road in the Town of Menasha, to confine a fire from short circuited electrical heating tape in the attic. Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. workmen noticed flames coming from the roof and used portable extinguishers to douse the flames. Fourteen volunteer firemen from the joint towns of Neenah-Menasha were at the scene for one hour and 15 minutes, removing wet insulation to keep water damage down, Chief John Hibner reported. (Post-Crescent Photo)

COG to Explore Additional Ways Of Using Help of Valley Citizens

NEENAH — The Fox Valley Council of Governments, which since its formation has relied heavily upon private volunteers, is about to take a serious look at expanding the scope of citizen involvement in the regional agency's operations.

The agenda to be followed by COG officials at the monthly meeting here Wednesday includes study of a citizen advisory committee.

According to Laurel Heaney, Town of Neenah, COG chairman, the item was placed on the agenda after he and other COG officials learned of extensive work to include citizens by the Corpus Christi, Texas, regional planning agency.

More Participation

The opening discussion Wednesday is expected to result in study of methods of creating a broader base of citizen participation in COG.

At present, the cooperative planning agency's chief outlet for participation by citizens of the 13 member communities is the public information and education committee (PIE).

Mrs. John Butler, Appleton, is chairman of the committee, which has functioned as long as the agency has been operating.

The COG began 12 years ago as the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, with voting membership divided between government officials and private citizens.

Last year, to conform to concepts in favor with federal officials, the organization was reshaped to hand more policy-making control to government heads, leaving two voting citizen members-at-large on the council.

That has left the non-voting PIE group as the chief active body involving citizens.

Two of the group's activities to reach the public have been publication of a regular newsletter and showing of a large portable display depicting COG activities.

The display, built in December, has been in several communities since then and currently is installed in the Neenah Public Library lobby.

Besides explaining COG programs to the public, another function that may be explored for expansion is work with government officials such as aldermen, village trustees and town sidebar supervisors to create better understanding and sympathy on their part for COG proposals.

Restaurant Burglarized

OSHKOSH — About $50 worth of light fixtures, flood lights and extension cords were stolen early Friday from Skall's Colonial Wonder Bar, S. Memorial Drive in the Town of Menasha.

When Russell Skall reported the theft to county police at 6 p.m., he said the burglary must have occurred between 1 and 5:30 a.m.

Winnebago GOP Officers Expect Quiet Caucus

MENASHA — Winnebago County Republican Party officials expect little excitement Monday at their party caucus, even though their actions will have bearing on this fall's state and national elections.

The central purpose of the caucus is to elect delegates to the sixth congressional district caucus and state party convention later this spring. The delegates represent county party feelings on issues and candidates to be given attention at the district and state affairs.

Assemblyman David Martin, Neenah, resolutions chairman for the county caucus, said at present the resolutions include accolades for Gov. Warren Knowles, support for Mrs. Mary Ising, Oshkosh, in her bid for another term as national committeewoman, and expressions of sentiment on Vietnam war policy, urban turmoil and federal-state tax sharing.

Martin said that as presently written, a resolution will be presented for caucus approval commending the work of Gov. Warren Knowles. "As presently drafted, it indicates that we are urging him to seek election," said Martin. Knowles had declined to state whether he will seek another term as Governor or run for U.S. Senator or retire. The county resolution would encourage him to choose continued elective service, but would refrain from stating which office he should seek in November.

Mrs. Ising, veteran representative of Wisconsin in national GOP affairs, has opposition in her bid for re-election. The local unit would support her as a resident of the county.

Two years ago, the county and district caucuses were scenes of heated battles between Republican candidates seeking their party's support to run for the district congressional seat against an incumbent Democrat. This year, Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, has unchallenged support for another term. Although he has not yet made official announcement of candidacy.

Another potential source of rivalry evaporated when Michigan Gov. George Romney withdrew from the presidential primary race, eliminating the chance of caucus discord between his and former vice president Richard Nixon's supporters, or those of other possible GOP presidential hopefuls.

Man Fined for Contributing To Delinquency

James A. Stackpole, 24, Lisle, Ill., was fined $100 and costs or 48 days in jail Friday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Illinois girl with whom he stayed at a route 2, West De Pere home for about a week.

Stackpole, who was charged following investigation by Outagamie County authorities, has been in jail under $1,500 bond since last Monday, when he was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. His case was continued at that time so he could consult an attorney.

Investigators said that Stackpole, married and the father of one child, stayed with the Downers Grove, Ill., girl who had run away from home. Stackpole and the girl were taken into custody March 9. The girl was released to her parents.

Pipeline Objectors on File in Steiger Office

WASHINGTON — A spokesman in the office of Rep.

William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, said today the Sixth District congressman's plea for more time to file objections to the proposed Appleton pipeline project is based on knowledge of actual objectors.

The spokesman said Steiger's office has on file "a number" of letters from persons who have expressed opposition — some strenuously — to the water pipeline into Lake Winnebago.

Most of the objections, he added, come from residents living along the north end of the lake, including the Neenah-Menasha area.

No Names

He declined to give names or number of objectors or other details of their comments.

Steiger's request raised a furor in Appleton Thursday. He announced he had asked the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to accept objections later than an announced March 15 deadline the Corps has set for filing protests.

The Corps announced the deadline in a notice dated Feb. 27.

Steiger believed the amount of time was too short. The spokesman said the Corps had pointed out hearings held in Madison recently included an opportunity for persons to speak on the Appleton proposal, but that Steiger believed a hearing in Madison was inadequate for Fox Valley residents.

Friday, the congressman had not yet received a reply, according to the aide.

Corps Decides

The Corps asked interested persons to file written comments with the Corps of Engineers, Chicago District, 219 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., 60604. The Corps will decide whether to grant permission for the lake bottom installation chiefly on the basis of the way it would affect navigation, although its effect on fish, wildlife and other conservation considerations also will be studied.

The 42-inch line would be installed a minimum of 2 feet below the lake bed, with the intake four feet above the lake bottom and protected by stone riprap.

Band Concert Set Sunday

NEENAH — Whether you like to whistle or hum the melody from a popular musical, like a stirring march, or just like to listen — you will enjoy the versatile concert the Community Band will play at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the high school auditorium.

Al Schulze will direct the 50 member band in a program which was received warmly by the Neenah Golden Agers in a preview concert Tuesday.

A selection of special interest, which the band is including in its annual spring concert, is "Bubbling Woodwinds," an original composition by David Schanke, a former Neenah High School student and musician.

Sousa's "Manhattan Beach," "April Holiday," selections from the "Sound of Music" and "The Music Man," plus a "Walt Disney Overture," including "Whistle While You Work" and "When You Wish Upon a Star," will be part of the musical fare.

A limited number of tickets are still available at the Camera and Card Shop, as well as the Neenah Pool, the Park and Recreation Department announced.

"To say the band is enthusiastic about the concert is putting it mildly," says James Hrubecky, staunch supporter of the Community band project. "They have already sold 600 tickets."

Correction

NEENAH — Gilbert Krueger, 418 Park Drive, is chairman of the Fara for Mayor Committee, rather than Ald. Joseph Kraus as was reported incorrectly in the Friday Twin City News-Record. Kraus is secretary of the group backing Ald. Peter Fara for mayor.

Open House Slated for New Water Facilities in Menasha

MENASHA — The Water & Light Utility Commission has an open house on tap for local residents to view the new facilities at the water filtration plant.

The commission announced the event, to show off the results of major construction, completed at the plant during the past year, from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Besides being guided on tours of the plant, visitors will be given refreshments, and there will be surprises for children making the visits with their parents.

Four Phases

The plant expansion was undertaken, as part of a four phase program now complete, at a cost of more than $1 million.

The gleaming new filtration plant facilities include two million-gallon filters, a laboratory, office, conference room and pump room.

But the secret of much of the expansion program is under ground. Last summer, pipelines were installed northward along Manitowoc Street to serve Gegan School and eastward along Airport Road to provide transmission lines feeding the growing north edge of the city.

On Island

Another set of mains went under the Government Canal, across the Washington Street bridge and into the Island industrial area, to boost service and improve water pressure for plants and residences. The new 750,000 gallon water tower on the Island is a key portion of the added facilities.

Quantities of pipelines installed included more than 7,500 feet of 20-inch main, 6,000 feet of 16-inch main, 4,700 feet of 12-inch mains, nearly 5,000 feet of 8-inch mains and other connections, fittings and valves. The new lines also made room for nine more fire hydrants.

Citizens Help the Fox Valley Council of Governments reach the public in COG communities through various activities of the regional agency's public information and education committee. Youths Stage Paint-In To Convert City Hall To New Coffee House

NEENAH — The "World Quo Vadis," a coffee house for Twin City teenagers located on the first floor of the Neenah city hall, will make its debut in mid-April and the former headquarters for the fire department is rapidly taking on a new look.

Youths have been busy scrubbing and painting the ceilings and walls in a variety of colors, from black to turquoise blue, in preparation for the opening next month.

35 Present

A crew moved into the building Thursday afternoon to continue the "paint-in." Thirty-five persons worked on the project last? The youths, headed by Jerry Lodes, are looking for various items to equip the coffee house, which will be operated on a break-even basis.

Among the equipment needed is a refrigerator, a double sink, a hot plate, all color of paint, nails, plywood, carpeting, lumber, nails, lights, tables, chairs, waste cans, curtains, fish nets, candles, a dish drying rack, coffee mugs and saucers and spoons.

Collection

Persons interested in donating items can bring them to the old post office building from 1 to 5 p.m. today or call 725-6891 after 4:30 p.m. any day.

Sue Menning is chairman of the 11-member board of directors which will take control of the coffee house.

The other members are Jill Koerner, Lynn Van Linn, Paul Roth, Chris Coepsel, Sally Seyler, John Laemons, Steve Geahr, Cal Kemp, Lance Leopold and Tim Mueller.

Area Teenagers, like Clifford Ebben, above, conducted another "paint-in" at the Neenah City Hall ground floor Thursday in preparation for the opening of the "World Quo Vadis," a coffee house for Twin City youths. The former headquarters for the Neenah Fire Department will become a center for youths by mid-April. (Post-Crescent Photos)

LU Professor
Appointed to Salzburg Post

Dr. Daniel L. Arnaud
To Help Europeans
Understand America

Dr. Daniel L. Arnaud, assistant professor of classics at Lawrence University, has been appointed assistant director of the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies for the next two years, Paul M. Herzog, president, said. The appointment needs approval by the seminar's trustees.

Arnaud will be on leave of absence from Lawrence during that time. He has been on the Lawrence faculty since 1964.

The Salzburg Seminar was founded in 1947 by a group of Harvard students to enlarge European understanding of American political, economic and intellectual life. It is housed in Schloss Leopoldskron, a baroque castle in Salzburg, Austria.

Six one-month seminars are held between January and September each year. Emphasis is on free discussion in small groups with a critical interchange of ideas about problems and attitudes in the United States.

Faculty members, who volunteer their time, are American professors and specialists chosen for academic or professional accomplishments and their willingness to engage in informal discussion.

Each seminar is attended by about 50 fellows, European men and women between 25 and 40 years of age, who come primarily from the legal and other professions, from universities, journalism and government administration. Some 5,000 fellows representing 17 Western European countries and Yugoslavia as well as more than 400 American lecturers have taken part in the Salzburg Seminar over the last 20 years.

Arnaud will be one of three American directors in residence at Salzburg. The directors make extended trips covering the European continent each year to select those who are offered fellowships.

Among the American experts who served on seminars last year was Dr. Henry M. Wriston, one-time president of Lawrence, who took part in a study group on "International Policies of the United States."

Car Squeezed
Between Bus,
Semi-Trailer

Mrs. Mary O. Frey, 715 W. Spring St., suffered minor bumps and bruises in an accident Friday afternoon that "sandwiched" her car between a bus and a semi-trailer truck at W. Wisconsin Avenue and N. Richmond Street.

Appleton police said that Mrs. Frey stopped for a red light while eastbound on Wisconsin Avenue. She was stopped behind an Olson Transportation Co. semi unit driven by Ronald R. Lambie, 30, 1032 S. Joseph St.

Her car was struck from behind by a Fox River Bus Lines bus driven by Miles J. Vokral, 46, 930 W. Parkway Blvd. The 1959 auto was shoved into the rear of the semi trailer. Although both ends of Mrs. Frey's 1959 auto were extensively damaged, there was only minor damage to the rear of the trailer and the front of the bus.

Appleton firemen were called to flush down gasoline that leaked from the Frey auto. Traffic was hampered for some time at the busy intersection.

Youth, 16, Charged
In Check Forgeries

Waived from juvenile court jurisdiction, John Nelson, 16, 1218 N. Superior St., Friday afternoon appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on two charges of issuing forged $20 checks.

Nelson was charged following investigation by Appleton detectives. Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller continued arraignment to Monday morning to allow Nelson time to consult his attorney. Nelson was jailed under $3,000 bond.

Untangle Maze of Rules

IRS Aids Puzzled Taxpayers

Fox Citizens perplexed by the multitude of forms and regulations governing personal income tax returns are receiving assistance from the tax information service of the Appleton office of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Taxpayers may call in person at the office Mondays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and may phone in their questions any weekday during the same hours until April 15.

Questions which arise most frequently are those concerning deductions claimed for students and other dependents, said Vincent Hermans, of the Appleton office.

Mrs. Mary Frey, 715 W. Spring St., escaped with minor injuries Friday afternoon when her car was struck from behind by a bus and shoved into the rear of a semi-trailer at W. Wisconsin Avenue and N. Richmond Street. Firemen were summoned to wash down leaking gasoline. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Parking, Remodeling for Courthouse Confronts Board

Sanitation Ordinance Also
On Agenda for Supervisors

Remodeling plans for the county jail, the proposed county sanitation ordinance and proposals for solving the parking problem around the courthouse are expected to produce most of the fireworks at Tuesday's Outagamie County Board meeting.

Appleton architect Raymond LeVeé is slated to appear before the board at 10 a.m. to present plans for remodeling the fourth floor of the courthouse which contains the jail.

The issue has been before the board several times in the past year but has been shelved each time with the last delay coming when a proposal was made to relocate the jail on the old county airport grounds. The county has been told by the state to correct certain deficiencies in the jail.

The sanitary code, which will regulate all private water supply and sewage disposal systems in the county, is required by the state by May 1. In its present form, the code has been recommended by the board's zoning committee but went through the executive committee without recommendation.

Copies of the code were sent out to all supervisors Thursday for their study. The sanitary code is the second of three codes required by the state under the new water control standards. The first was the floodplain and shoreland zoning ordinance and the third is the subdivision control ordinance.

The board also will have to decide on a request for $1,500 from the public property and insurance committee to secure options on possible courthouse parking lot sites. Two possible locations are being considered by the committee with the intention of getting acquisition figures on both sites and then letting the board. If it decides to go ahead on the project, pick the site it wants.

Another controversial proposal, raising the hourly wage of sheriff deputies, will be back before the board. The board and the Deputy Sheriffs Association compromised last fall on $2.25 per hour but, after several meetings with the group, the executive committee has agreed to recommend raising the salary to $2.50.

A report also is anticipated from the parks and recreation committee on its investigation of costs for man-made lakes in the area.

A proposal has been made for construction of a man-made lake in Plamann Park. On Friday, members of the committee talked with officials at Black Creek, Seymour, Shiocton and the conservation department on construction and operating costs.

Vandals Loot and Litter United Church of Christ

NEENAH — Vandals entered the Congregational United Church of Christ, 1511 Nicolet Blvd., Friday, pocketed an estimated $1150 in change, ransacked the pastor's office and left in their wake muddy foot prints.

Rev. John C. Hanchett, pastor, left the church at 5 p.m. and returned about 10:30 p.m. to check things out and found the mess.

Police reported that entry was gained by breaking the window on the east side of the building and muddy foot prints led directly to Fellowship hall. Here a soft drink machine had been pried open with an old screwdriver and an estimated $10 taken.

Bottles were broken and emptied on the floor of the room. Mud had been thrown on the clothes rack. A panel had been kicked in to gain entry to the pastor's office. Here the police found desk drawers emptied and thrown on the floor and cupboard doors ajar. Locked drawers had been pried open and some loose change was found on the floor.

The trail led to the sacristy where no damage was reported. Police are investigating.

Trinity School Pupils

Performing will be the school band, under the direction of Elwood Bleick and the children's choir, directed by Wilbur Luehring. Some children will offer piano solos and several comedy skits will be put on by faculty members and parents.

Co-chairmen of the refreshment committee will be Mrs. Oscar Patschke and Mrs. Clifford Rogers Jr. assisted by mothers of kindergarten and first graders.

Metro Plan for Shared Taxes
Recommended for Alliance

Plan Drafted at Oshkosh
Session Friday Expected to Wind Up Before Tarr Group

Sweeping changes in Wisconsin's local governmental operations — shifting emphasis to metropolitan units and consolidations — won unanimous support of a blue ribbon committee Friday at Oshkosh.

Four mayors and a city manager, all members of the Alliance of Cities, hammered out a list of proposals and recommendations to be presented to representatives of the state's 20 largest cities at LaCrosse later this month.

The Alliance, which includes Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Manitowoc and Fond du Lac in the Fox Valley, will present its complete package on improving local government and finance to the Tarr Task Force in a hearing at Madison May 1.

Task Force Duty
Appointed by the State Legislature, the task force has instructions to compile its recommendations and report back by the 1969 legislative session. A series of public hearings have been held in recent months in major Wisconsin cities.

Mayors Otto Festge, Madison; Robert Rand, Manitowoc; Donald Tilleman, Green Bay; William Beyer, Racine; John Kannenberg, Wausau; and City Manager Angus Crawford, Oshkosh, had been appointed the special committee by the Alliance to draft proposals to the Tarr Committee.

Informed of the committee's recommendations, Mayor George Buckley of Appleton said today he would "back them all."

Buckley, who has been active in the Alliance and an advocate of new annexation laws and a better break for cities when it comes to state-shared aids and taxes, felt the Alliance "would buy the package."

The idea of metro service and taxing districts is somewhat controversial because of the change but not as new in other parts of the country where urban sprawl has created major problems which shackle central cities.

The Alliance committee unanimously favored a metro district plan for distribution of state shared taxes.

Under the plan, a metro district would be established to include the central city and all adjoining incorporated municipalities and any towns which are a part of joint or unified school districts.

In lieu of a metro district, the county could be the distributing unit for state shared aids and taxes. Distribution would be on the basis of need with communities with higher tax rates receiving more than low tax areas, thus eliminating so-called "tax island" within a district.

Outmoded Formula
Embodied in the committee's recommendations to the Alliance of Cities is revision of the outmoded utility tax-sharing formula which now encourages "utility tax islands" such as Two Creeks in Manitowoc County where multi-million dollar nuclear power plants are being constructed.

The Alliance group said one-third of the utility tax should go to the community where the utility is located and two-thirds where the business is actually done.

Establishment of a county-wide, uniform assessing program throughout Wisconsin also was favored by the representatives of city governments.

They also recommended that highway aids be based on traffic volume rather than miles of road in a community.

Mayor Festge, Alliance president, said in areas where county government would serve as the metro arm of government, service districts could be established and in turn levy taxes for district-wide services. This would have cities and other units of government paying for the services they receive.

Under the present setup, cities usually pick up a good share of the tab for county government but do not always share in its services. Critics of the existing system say towns pay the least and get the most when it comes to services — at the expense of central cities.

There was an air of optimism Friday that the Alliance would adopt most recommendations and urge the Tarr Committee to give them serious consideration before making its report to the legislature.

"It is difficult to come up with a package to please everybody," Mayor Festge commented, "but I think this one will carry when we meet at LaCrosse."

Buckley Raps Pay
Boost for Ehricke

Will Not Veto Welfare Director's
Raise Despite Strong Misgivings

Mayor George Buckley Friday took a verbal slap at a merit pay raise granted Welfare Director Merton Ehricke earlier in the week by the city council but said he would not veto the action.

Ehricke is now the highest paid welfare director in nine cities of comparable size or larger than Appleton, including Green Bay, the mayor pointed out when affixing his signature to official council proceedings.

Ehricke last month announced he was going to run for mayor but then backed out. His pay was boosted from $752 to $805 per month upon recommendation of the welfare ordinance committee. However, it was learned the amount had not been the recommendation of the city personnel director.

Cites Survey
In a memorandum forwarded to the clerk's office with the council minutes, Buckley said the survey of welfare director salaries had been conducted just recently.

"In view of my policy of never vetoing pay raises for any city employee, I am not going to veto this action by the council," Buckley said.

"However, I wish it to be a matter of record that I do not

United States' power in Vietnam, but this must be "a specific judgment for a specific set of circumstances." If we do have the moral right to intervene, "then we have to make a judgment as to our ability to intervene effectively. There must be some prospect of success as a precondition of action," she said.

Mrs. Buchanan said the recent Tet attacks seem to have indicated to the Saigon government and to the people of South Vietnam that "they've got to work together harder than ever."

At the same time, she said, the Viet Cong have been heartened by "a demonstration of continued power and terroristic ability to shake faith in the Saigon government."

She noted the variety of approaches to the war prevailing in the United States today. Among groups represented were:

Groups Represented
Protesters — "they no longer seem to be universal pacifists; they object not so much to war, but specifically to the Vietnam war."

Hippies and "flower people" — "they have no serious interest, except that they want to stop the world and get off."

Student protesters — their focus seems to be more on institutions, than on the war. Churchmen — "they're a little hard to pin down."

Negotiators — they have a "David Harum" approach, which would give a little and get a little; unfortunately "that's not how the opposition sees it."

Liberal - intellectuals — typified by John Kenneth Galbraith, "they're for really getting out, but doing it gracefully."

Super-Hawks — they favor a beefed up industrial effort, a declaration of war, increased military activity and an eventual invasion of North Vietnam. Johnson administration — "The United States has been, under different administrations, and is still fighting a limited war in Vietnam. The often expressed objective has been to assist in the formation of a viable government."

Future policy would seem to include an enlarged military buildup, a stiffening of military approach in South Vietnam, strengthening of political power in Saigon; and a policy of military strength, not military weakness as a way to peace negotiations.

Appleton Woman
Hurt When Car
Slams Buildings

Patricia L. Schultz, 21, of 717 N. Rankin St., Appleton, was taken to Theda Clark Hospital by Oshkosh ambulance for treatment of injuries she received when the car she was driving struck two buildings at about 3:12 a.m. Saturday in the Village of Winchester.

Winnebago County police said her car was traveling north on State 110 when it failed to stop at the intersection with State 150. The car crossed State 150 and struck concrete and wood frame buildings owned by Melvin A. Anunson, route 1, Larsen. She was alone in the car.

She received cuts on both knees and a possible back injury, according to police. Damage to her car was estimated at more than $100.

Police said it was foggy and the highway was wet at the time of the accident.

Man Placed on Probation for Withholding Pay

William Jirikowic, 21, route 5, Appleton, was placed on one year probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services after he pleaded guilty to a charge of refusing to pay a former employee.

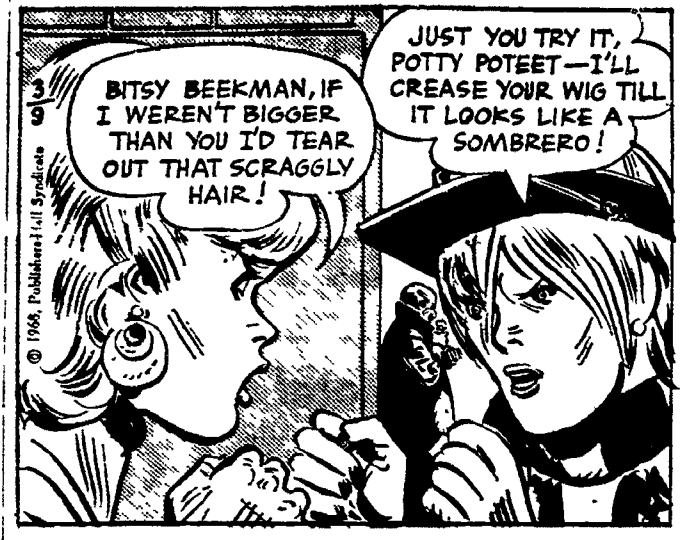

Robert Malewski, in the complaint he brought against Jirikowic, stated that he worked 97 1/2 hours for the Appleton man between June 22 and July 14. He said he terminated employment with Jirikowic on July 14 because he had not been paid. Malewski said Jirikowic owed him $195.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, in withholding sentence and ordering probation, told Jirikowic that as a condition of probation he must pay Malewski.

Changes in Laws governing traffic are being discussed by men taking part in the regional traffic courts conference Thursday at New London. Seated from the left are Lawrence Malouf, Neenah police chief, and James Byers, Brown

Marion Tips Neillsville In Tourney

Mustangs Meet Schofield for State Berth in Finals Tonight

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — Marion's gallant Mustangs fought back from an 8-point deficit in the fourth quarter to topple Neillsville, 64-59, here Friday night and gain a berth in the finals of the WIAA Sectional Tournament.

Schofield edged past Rhinelander, 63-59, in the second contest and will face Marion tonight for the championship at 8:30 p.m. The two first night's losers are paired in a consolation match at 7 p.m.

Marion trailed by a 53-45 margin in the early portion of the last quarter and was still down by six at 59-53 with 2:55 remaining. But then a series of ball-handling errors by the Warriors combined with shooting by the Mustangs' Randy Peterson and Bruce West helped pull the game out.

Added Free Throw

Peterson's jumper from the baseline reduced the count to 59-55. The big Mustang center then added a free throw, and West hit from out to make it 59-58. West then connected again on a jump-shot from the side with 38 seconds to put Marion back on top at 50-59.

Neillsville brought the ball down court, shot, and missed. The Mustangs grabbed the rebound, and with 13 seconds left, the Warriors' Russ Karl fouled Peterson. He swished both attempts for an insurmountable 62-59 lead.

After Neillsville committed another error, Marion's John Braun was fouled and sank two foul shots with three seconds showing.

West paced the winners with 19 points, and Braun and Peterson each contributed 14. Bruce LaZotte took game scoring honors for Neillsville with 22 markers and Karl added 14.

Marion actually won the game at the foul line, where the Mustangs netted 18 of 27 attempts. Neillsville made seven of 11 tries. The Warriors had a 26-23 advantage in field goals. Marion held a 33-28 margin on rebounds, as Braun and Peterson each grabbed 11.

Troubles For Evergreens Schofield, which had whipped Rhinelander by 26 and 13-point margins earlier in the season, got nothing but trouble from the Hodags. The score was tied at 59-all with 1:39 remaining, when the Evergreens went into a stall.

Then, with 47 seconds showing, Schofield's Bill Alexejum was fouled and sank both free throw attempts to make it 61-59. Rhinelander hung onto the ball until 27 seconds remained, but the Hodags' Tom Reimer tried to get a shot off and was tied up.

In the melee that followed, the Hodags' Dale Bronson was fouled with seven seconds to play. With only one shot coming, Bronson tried to miss in hopes of a teammate shoving in the rebound.

He missed the shot as intended, but Schofield's Gordy Kosobucki got the rebound and was fouled. Kosobucki then hit two free attempts with four seconds left to put the game out of reach.

Alexejum tallied 24 points to lead Schofield and Kosobucki had 15. Kurt Spychella, nursing an injured eye, proved valuable with 10. Three Hodags were in double figures, with Reimer's 20 setting the pace.

Papermaker Quint Faces Clipper '5'

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

GREEN BAY — Kimberly's torrid Papermakers parlayed a superlative defense, potent rebounding and 44.8 per cent field goal shooting into a resounding, 68-45 victory over Pulaski High School Friday during opening-night action in the Green Bay sectional basketball tournament.

The Papermakers, who have reeled off six straight wins and have bettered their season's record to 18-4, collide with Sturgeon Bay (21-2) at 8:30 p.m. today in the Brown County Arena to decide the sectional title and qualification for the prized trip to the 8-team state tournament at Madison. The game will be televised by Channel 11.

Jack Wippich - coached Kimberly showed poise, polish and drive in handling Pulaski (19-4) with unexpected ease before a nearly-full house in the spacious Arena. The Papermakers broke to early leads of 6-0, 10-2 and 16-5 and never lost control of the contest.

Though previously - fearsome Tom Banaszynski scored nearly half the Raider total - with a 20-point harvest - he was never a hurdle in the Papermakers' victory path. The scourge of the WIAA tournament series - with a 35-point average coming into the game - the 6-foot-4 center was left sealed off and frustrated in the first half by the deft Kimberly zone defense and managed only six shots (sinking three) while the Papermakers stormed to a 34-18 intermission-time edge.

Lamers Scores 21 The fast-breaking Papermakers retaliated with a 3-pronged offensive. Bill Lamers scored 21 points, while Jeff Wildenberg and Wayne Swokowski fired in 15 apiece.

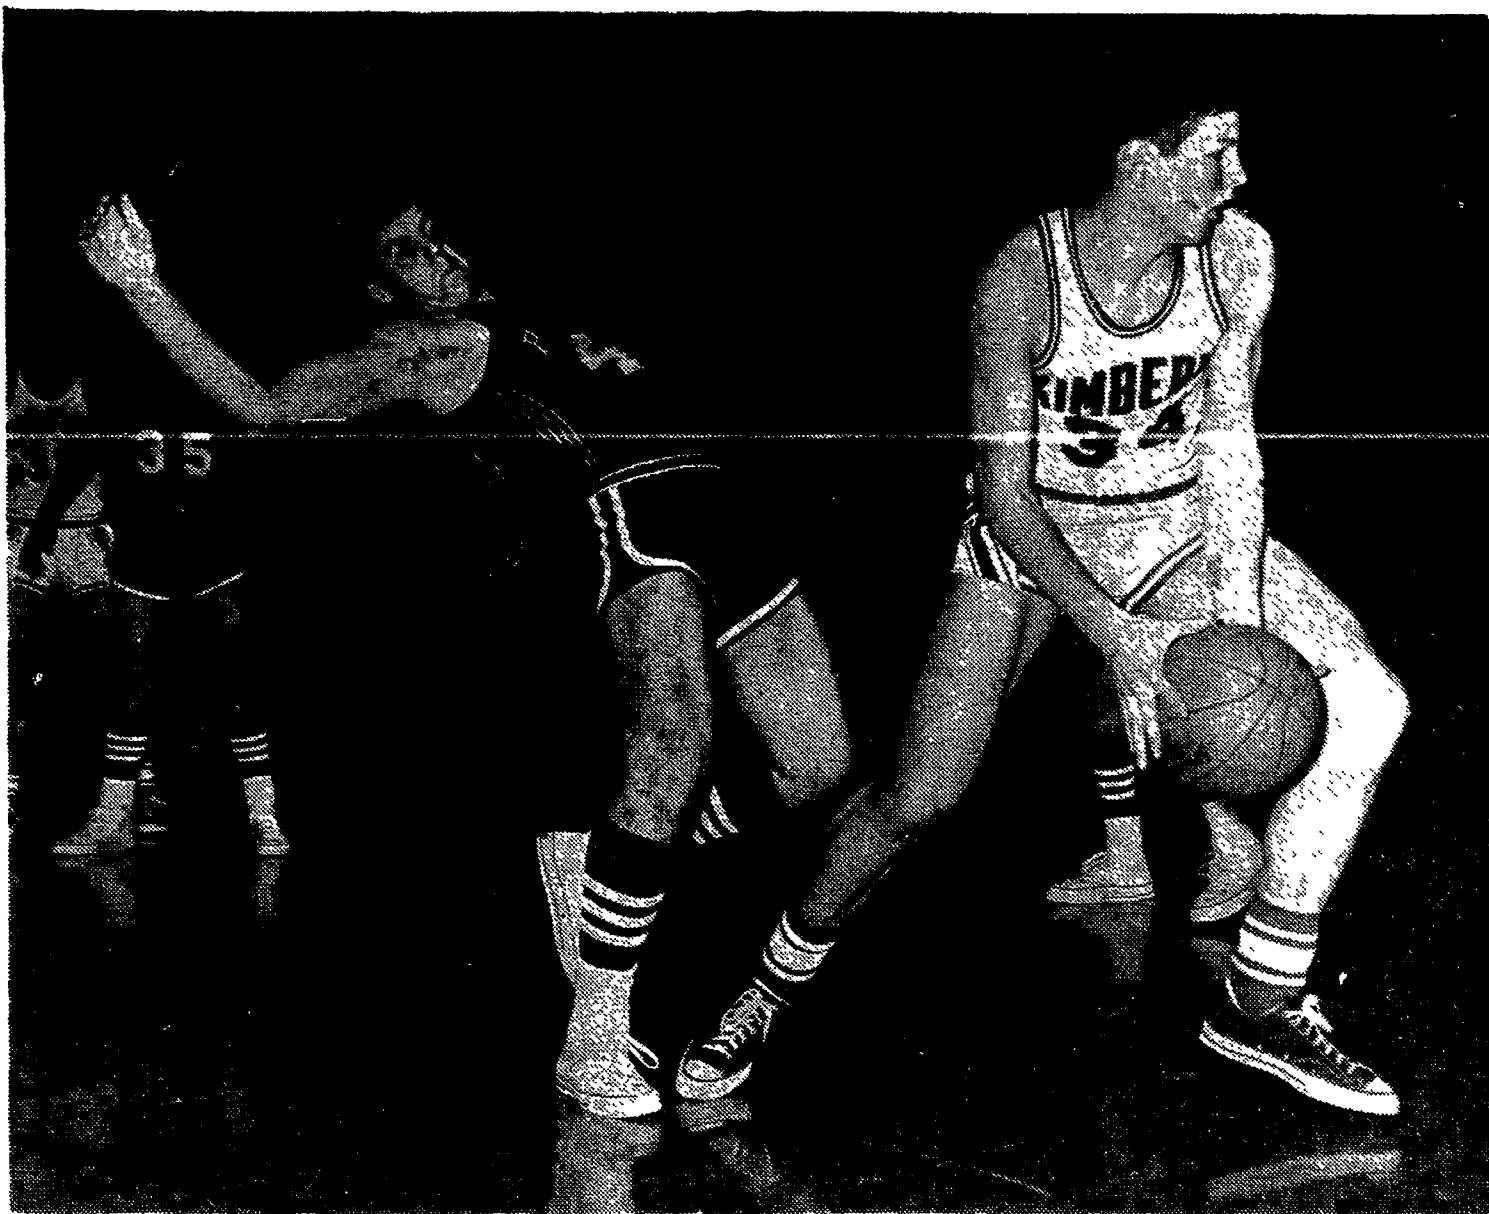

Kimberly lost a bit of its momentum in the early minutes of the fourth period, and twice Pulaski closed within 10 points (47-37 and 49-39). Raider fans wondered if their team could repeat the sterling comebacks that had characterized Pulaski's play in the Clintonville regional tourney.

The Papermakers answered in the negative with unmistakable conviction. In a driving finish, Kimberly outscored Pulaski, 19 to 6, for the final 4½ minutes of play.

For the game, Kimberly sailed the ball through the hoop 30 times in 67 attempts from the field. Pulaski's attack struggled throughout against the aggressive Papermakers and sank only 16 of 51 tries - for 31.4 per cent.

Undefeated Ships Next For Rockets

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MANITOWOC — Neenah's Rockets had the Redmen of Sheboygan South on the brink of annihilation but the killer instinct wasn't there and they settled for a 66-57 triumph in the semi-finals of the WIAA Sectional Basketball Tournament here Friday night.

Thus, the victory sets up the eagerly-awaited, much anticipated battle between the Mid-Eastern Conference champions and Fox River Valley Conference king Manitowoc at 8:30 p.m. today for the coveted berth in the state tournament.

Manitowoc remained the lone unbeaten team left in competition for state honors by crushing Beaver Dam, 96-74, in Friday's opener. The Ships will carry a 22-0 record into tonight's tussle; Neenah 20-2.

The chartered bus which was scheduled to haul the Rockets didn't show up at the Neenah gym and after hurried arrangements to get another, the team finally arrived here with a little more than two minutes left in the third quarter of the opener.

This unnerving experience coupled with a possible peek-ahead to the expected meeting with the Shipbuilders may have contributed to the Rockets' so-so performance.

Pull Out of Range

But like in many games this season, they played just well enough to win and had the ability to pull out of range when threatened.

South had trouble renting, begging or buying baskets in the first three periods but in the fourth stanza came up with 29 points, one more than it had managed in the entire first three. It wasn't quite enough to overcome the nice lead that the Rockets had constructed.

A Neenah advantage of 18 points at the end of three quarters was trimmed to seven with 2:58 left in the game but just like that, the victors pumped in five straight points to cement the triumph.

Probably the outstanding feature of the game, aside from the victory itself, was the sparkling defensive job turned in by Lee Olson on South's Chuck Simon.

Held to 6 Points

Simon, 6-3 and four inches taller than the Neenah senior, was limited to one basket and it came on a rebound with less than four minutes left to play.

The second team all-conference choice, who hit 32 points in the regional final against Kohler, added four free throws for a final total of six. Olson sat out the last couple of minutes of the first half but Simon was held equally as well in check by sophomore Pat Hawley.

The Rockets had to go much of the way without Dan Jan-

Milwaukee King, West Allis Central Defeated in Sectional Tournaments

Eau Claire Memorial, Beloit Among Quintets Reaching Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Suring's bus broke down and Milwaukee King's Magic carpet fluttered to the floor but Manitowoc's Ships sailed serenely on as Wisconsin's annual public high school basketball tournament reached the sectional stage Friday night.

The Ships, Wisconsin's only unbeaten team, advanced with 15 other teams into tonight's sectional finals at eight sites around the state. The 16 are hopefully headed for the state championship games in Madison starting Thursday. Only eight will make it.

Manitowoc (22-0), ranked second in the state, will get there if the Ships can sink Neenah (20-2) tonight in what could prove to be their stiffest test of the season. Manitowoc beat Beaver Dam Friday 96-74.

But Friday marked the end of the road for Suring, King and 14 other teams on the short end of sectional semifinal scores.

Suring, late for his game at Green Bay with Sturgeon Bay (21-2) because of a balky bus, arrived in time to lose to a taller Clippers 86-60. Mike Propson scored 30 points for the Clippers against a Suring team that had held foes to 52 points a game.

Milwaukee King, in the clouds after knocking off previously unbeaten and top-ranked Milwaukee North in the regional finals last weekend, lost altitude Friday, dropping a 76-73 decision to unsung Brookfield East (21-1).

Another of last weekend's spoilers, West Allis Central, saw its dreams ruined. Central fell to South Milwaukee (15-7) in the Racine Sectional, 79-59.

South Milwaukee will meet Racine Horlick, (16-6), a 63-54 winner over Delavan-Darien, for Racine Sectional honors tonight.

Other Finals

Other finals tonight include Eau Claire Memorial (21-1) vs. New Richmond (15-7) at Spooner; Beloit (19-3) vs. Madison East (13-9) at Madison; La Crosse Central (14-8) vs. Wisconsin Dells (18-3) at LaCrosse; Marion (20-3) vs. Schofield at Wisconsin Rapids; Whitewater (18-5) vs. Brookfield East (21-1) at Brookfield, and Sturgeon Bay vs. Kimberly (18-4) at Green Bay.

Neenah, unranked but talented and bidding for its 14th Madison trip and its second in three years, jumped off to an early lead over Sheboygan South, widened it in the second half, then held off a South rally with stalling tactics for a 66-57 victory.

Six-foot-8 Dale Magedanz, who presumably will be matched with Manitowoc's 6-foot-6 Pete Hansen tonight, scored 15 points and teamed with 6-foot-3 Dan Jankowski to dominate the boards.

Rocky Jiroch scored 21 points and Bill Sepnalski 20 for the Ships, who dominated the boards and hit at blistering 55 per cent of their shots against Beaver Dam.

Manitowoc, state champion in 1963, is seeking an eighth trip to Madison and the first since 1964.

Big 10 Tightens Policy On TV of Grid Games

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten once again has moved to curtail the telecasting of sellout football games.

At a meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors, the Big Ten moved to add further television restrictions which are allowed under the code of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Under the NCAA rules, an institution is permitted to telecast a sellout game if there is no conflict of other games in the area and if the game involved is outside of a 400-mile radius.

The Big Ten is aiming to discourage all telecasts except, of course, the NCAA's game of the week.

One reason for the move is the community antenna televising systems. These systems involve mammoth receivers which pick off signals and then are capable of transmitting to various areas.

Unable to Stop "We have no way of stopping them," said Commissioner Bill Reed "so we feel we have to add restrictions."

Under the Big Ten plan which comes under the White Resolution and must be passed at the May meetings in Minneapolis for final approval, the conference will prohibit telecasting of games unless done by a university educational station which is noncommercial and operates on a nonprofit basis.

In order to succeed under the plan, the Big Ten would have to gamble that the educational station's signal will not be pirated. If the signal is pirated, then the university educational station would also be prohibited to carry the games.

The conference also turned down two Wisconsin proposals concerning use of conference facilities by professional teams. The Badgers first asked for a general waiver of the rule to allow each school to make its own decision on the use of its facilities by the pros.

After this was rejected, Wisconsin asked if it could make its facilities available to the Green Bay Packers for three exhibitions over a period of three years or one game a year. This also was defeated.

Dallas' Landry Hails Starr as NFL's Best QB

DALLAS (AP) — Bart Starr, called the greatest quarterback in pro football, says the secret of success is teamwork and pride, and that is what the Green Bay Packers have.

"There can be no other approach in football than in teamwork," Starr said Friday night while being awarded a plaque as the national sports personality of the year at the Dallas All-Sports Association banquet.

"At Green Bay, individuality is never stressed, but we know that will come through teamwork anyway," he said.

Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys, whose team twice lost the world championship of football because of Starr, made the presentation of the award, contributed for the athlete who shows ability and achievement with integrity.

It was Landry who hailed Starr as the finest quarterback in football.

Third Foul Called
Wildenberg popped in four goals before accumulating his third foul with 42 seconds of the first quarter remaining. After that, he put in a considerable amount of bench duty but was capably spelled by Paul Van Grinsven in all. Wildenberg sank six of nine shots for 15 points. Jeff VandenHeuvel just missed double figures, with nine points.

Don Hagany had a rare poor shooting night — meshing one of seven attempts and totaling two points — but he was a demon of a rebounder for his size (5-10) and again an expert playmaker.

Tom Banaszynski made good on six of 14 floor tries and sank eight of 13 from the foul line. His cousin, Larry Banaszynski, was Pulaski's runnerup, with eight points.

After a slow start by both teams, Wildenberg put in a rebound with 6:06 left in the first quarter. Swokowski drove the base-line to score and followed up with a fast-break goal, for a 6-0 lead. Pulaski broke its dry spell, when the game was 4:09 old, on Tom Banaszynski's short-range 2-point shot. Wildenberg retorted with a couple of quickies and Kimberly led, 10-2.

Though Pulaski began finding the range, Kimberly didn't let up and led by nine (18-9), at quarter's end.

Wilt to Fill Hannum's Post As 76er Coach

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Record American said Friday that it has learned Alex Hannum will resign after the playoffs as head coach of the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association and be replaced by 76ers ace Wilt Chamberlain.

Sports writer Murray Kramer said Hannum's resignation is already in the hands of club officials. Kramer said Hannum is set to take over as head coach and general manager of an unnamed NBA team.

The move, if verified, would make Chamberlain a player-coach, similar to the role occupied by his arch rival, Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics.

Hannum has directed both the 76ers and the St. Louis Hawks to NBA championships.

In Philadelphia, 76er general manager Jack Ramsey denied the reports.

"There's no truth to it at all," he said. "It sounds like a fairy tale to me."

"Alex Hannum has submitted no resignation to me."

N.C. State coach Norm Sloan refused to apologize for the Wolfpack freeze.

No Specific Plan
"We had no specific plan going into the ball game. It just developed as it went along," he said.

"We had quickness going for us and they had size going for them. So we wanted to play all over the court, not just under the basket."

The Buckeyes were on top, 19-18, at the half against the Super Sonics, then fell behind by one at the end of the third period, at 26-25.

Larry Strangenhoeer netted 13 points to top the victors, while Rod Gardiner tossed in 11 for the SS.

Appleton 'Y' Qualifies 22 For State Swimming Meet

A total of 22 girls from the Appleton YMCA have qualified to participate in the State YMCA Swimming Meet at Sheboygan Saturday, March 16.

In a sectional meet at Wausau last week involving teams from seven cities, Appleton won qualifying places in 26 individual and six relay events.

Leading the way was Maud Hardacker, who was first in the 50-yard butterfly and the 100-yard free-style and also helped her 200-yard medley relay team to victory in the 11-12 years old age group.

Miss Hardacker was one of 11 girls to qualify in three events. The others are Jeannie Martin, Judy Winski, Amy Savage, Marietta Martin, Eileen Connolly, Hilary Ziven, Barb Pawlowski, Leslie Swaby, Kris Meltz and Yolanda Holy.

Slated for competition in two events will be Kelly Kinnard, Peg Kuehnsted, Debbie Kichefski, Eileen Savage, Barb Weede, and Jody Mendelsohn. Robin Savage, Jane Rouman, Claire Cate, Ruth Kulhavy, and Betsy Bates will participate in one event.

The Appleton 'Y' swimmers fared well in recent competition at the Neenah-Menasha YWCA, where the girls finished third in a 16-team field. The boys wound up sixth among 11 squads.

fourth in the state, had 6-foot-7 Jeff Adler back in the lineup for the first time in almost a month. Adler, recovered from a broken hand, scored 11 points and was formidable under the boards in a 94-69 win over Ashland, whose Jim Chudy scored 40 points.

The Old Abes, after their 30th Madison appearance and their ninth in 10 seasons, got balanced scoring with Jim Howe the high man with 19 points.

New Richmond, trailing by five points against favored Rice Lake in the other Spooner semifinal, got a break when Rice Lake's 6-foot-7 Dan Boe was benched with four fouls in the closing minutes.

The Tigers spurred to within one at 69-68 by the time Boe returned. Mike Walsh put the game away with a field goal and two free throws in the final 60 seconds. Walsh scored 21 points; Mike Gillen 30 for the winners.

New Richmond has made three Madison trips, the last in 1927.

Spurred to Lead

Seventh-ranked Beloit spurred before halftime into a 28-21 lead with Bob Polglaze leading the attack with 16 points and turned back Iowa-Grant 60-49. Beloit, seeking its 17th Madison trip, has not made the championship games since 1963.

In the other Madison game, Gary Spaeni scored 23 points to lead Madison East, a 10-time member of the Elite Eight, to a 72-56 win over Janesville Craig.

The Purgolders, champions in 1958, trailed by a point at halftime, 26-25, but broke open the game with a 29-point barrage in the fourth period. East hit on 24 of 28 free throws. The games drew an estimated 6,900 fans.

South Milwaukee, the 1952 state champion, hit on 27 of 29 free throws including 24 straight in subduing West Allis Central.

The Rockets, seeking a sixth Madison trip and their first since 1962, shot into an 18-2 lead over an ice cold team, unable to sustain momentum after its upset of Lincoln. Tom Tanski scored 29 points for the winners and collected 36 rebounds. Central had only 19.

Little Trouble

Horlick, which shot down third ranked Racine Park on the first weekend of the tournament, had little trouble with Delavan-Darien. Tom Peck led the Horlick attack with 15 points, all in the first half.

Horlick is after its third trip to the state, and its first since 1963. It has never won the state title.

Brookfield East, which has never been to the Madison games, shelved ambitious King by outscoring the Generals 16-9 in the fourth period. The difference was on the free throw line. East hit on 22 of 31 from the line while King was 17 of 25.

Two of King's starters fouled out and another picked up four fouls.

Guy Lam, a 6-foot-7 center, scored 27 points and Tom Garske added 24 for the winners.

Whitewater, whose only Madison trip came in 1936 when the school was known as the White-water College High School, got 23 points from Hugh Gnatzig and with a 23-point final period whipped Watertown, 71-66.

La Crosse Central, the only team from the 1967 field with a chance to repeat, moved into the La Crosse finals with a 74-69 win over Durand.

Halftime Lead

The victory came after the Red Raiders gained a 42-21 halftime advantage. Steve Cooley had 20 points and Tom Schmidt 19 for the winners, seeking their 13th appearance in Madison. Durand came alive belatedly with a 27-point fourth period burst.

Wisconsin Dells, Central's Saturday opponent, broke Sparta's poise with pressing tactics in the final quarter and overcame a 45-38 deficit for a 59-53 victory.

Dells was a Madison visitor in 1942.

The Rockets put on a good finish at the close of the first segment and went into the second in control, 19-12.

They added another 13 points in the second frame while South experienced the first of two straight 8-point quarters for a 32-20 halftime score. The Red-men only had one basket in nine attempts.

A string of 10 points in the third stanza helped give the M-E champs their widest lead of the night, 46-28, at its conclusion. South's shooting only netted two fielders in a dozen chances.

With the score 50-33, the Southmen put together a string of eight points and, after two baskets by Jankowski, the PRVC entry trimmed the spread to 54-47 with another chain of six.

Travis Williams Sets Three Records for Kickoff Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Travis Williams of the Green Bay Packers had a record year as kickoff return specialist in the National Football League.

The Packer sprinter replaced Chicago's Gale Sayers as the NFL leader with an average of 41.1 yards and a total of four returns for touchdowns, both league records.

He also set another mark with two touchdown returns in one quarter—against Cleveland—and tied Carl Ward of Cleveland for the season's longest return—104 yards. The record is 106, by Green Bay's Al Carmichael in 1956.

Official NFL statistics, released Thursday, showed Williams had returned 13 kickoffs for 739 yards for the 41.4 average. That surpassed the mark of 37.7 set by Sayers last season on 16 carries for 603 yards. Sayers won the title in 1966 with an average of 31.2.

Ron Smith of the Atlanta Falcons was tops for the second straight year in number of returns, 39, and most yards, 976. His average was 25.0.

Green Bay was first in team averages with 46 returns for 1,241 yards and 27.0. Cleveland was second with 25.4 and Chicago third with 24.6.

Church Pioneering In Field of Politics

Broadcasts of Congressmen's Views Sponsored by Protestants

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An enterprising Protestant denomination is taking on some unusual tasks, including an effort to let people know what individual congressmen think about the Vietnam war.

"This is a prime moral concern of our times," said the Rev. Dr. Everett Parker, director of the Office of Communications of the United Church of Christ.

"We think it's important to help encourage a fuller clarification of viewpoints between government representatives and the public on this whole matter of peace."

The United Church, a two-million-member communion which has pioneered concrete steps in the cause of Christian reunion, also has undertaken several other uncommon projects, including:

Three Injured in Accidents on County Roads

Manawa Child, 5, Hospitalized After New London Crash

Three accidents on Outagamie County roads Friday and early today resulted in injuries to three persons, including a rural Manawa child.

Edward H. Streicher, 37, 416 Naymut St., Menasha, was taken by squad car to Appleton Memorial Hospital after his 1962 auto struck a utility pole in the 1900 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue, just west of Appleton, about 1:30 a.m. today.

County police said that Streicher suffered a deep laceration to his head. There was about $300 damage to the car. The accident is still under investigation.

Kim Vaughan, 5, route 1, Manawa, was taken by squad car to New London Community Hospital following a car-truck accident about 1 p.m. Friday at Evergreen and Division streets in New London.

Bump on Head

The girl, who suffered a bump on the head and a cut mouth, was in a car driven by Emma F. Radley, 431 Evergreen St., New London, which was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Reuben H. Kraemer, 55, Spring Green, Wis. Damage totaled about $450.

Both vehicles were eastbound on Division Street at the time of the accident, according to the incomplete county police report.

Another report indicated that Evalie A. Jensen, 19, Scandinavia, was injured about 3:30 p.m. Friday when the car she was driving struck a utility pole on State 54, at Boelter Road, 1½ miles west of Shiocton. A passenger in the car escaped injury.

The report indicated that the Jensen auto was westbound on 54 and left the road after going out of control on a corner. The pole was snapped off in the mishap. Damage to the 1966 auto totaled about $1,000. The extent of the woman's injuries was not reported.

AFS Talent Show Slated At Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — A large crowd is expected for the annual American Field Service chapter "Home Talent" show at 8 p.m. Sunday at the high school auditorium.

All proceeds will be applied to the expense of the foreign student program at the high school.

The program will include songs by the Singing Baehmans, instrumental music conducted by Ernest Broeniman, Poetic readings by Mrs. Wilbur Baehman, solos by Peggy Sousek, music by the Hungry Five, the humor of Elmer Root, mod selections by Cindy Thorpe and Ingrid Erickson, and a song by Jochen Seidl, AFS student.

Other displays of local talent are still being arranged.

New officers to take over July 1 are Phillip Graf, president; Mrs. Eugene Riedl, vice president; Mrs. Howard Brenneke, secretary-treasurer, and Evelyn Hince, Americans Abroad chairman.

Windows Broken in Home at Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — Police are investigating the complaint of Mrs. John Van Elsen, 433 Vandendroek St., who reported a double window broken in a storm door at her home.

The vandalism is believed to have taken place sometime Wednesday night or early Thursday.

Broadcast Material

—Setting up watchdog committees in local communities to keep check on radio and television broadcasts, on the lookout against the airing of material reflecting bias against Negroes.

—Establishing community groups to guard against extremist tactics to vilify individual public leaders, educators, ministers or institutions by loose accusations or name-calling on the air, or otherwise.

The objective, Dr. Parker said, is "not censorship but balance" — to try to see to it that misleading impressions aren't being foisted on the citizenry about persons or programs by one-sided attacks, from left or right.

Both of the broadcast-monitoring projects have been underwritten by foundations. The one on extremism by grants totalling $85,000 from the Field Foundation and the AFL-CIO, and the one on racism by a $160,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Racial Distortion

Under the plan for guarding against racially distorted broadcasts, steps were under way this week to form local committees in 10 Southern cities, with others to be formed later in many other places, including the Northern communities.

"We'll go into any community where responsible groups want us to come," Dr. Parker said.

Local committees are given guidance on analyzing broadcasts for possible discriminatory material, and when patterns of bias are discovered, evidence is to be documented and discussed with station management.

If, and only if, that effort fails to correct the situation, action would be taken to formally monitor and record allegedly biased programs, with findings and petitions against station license renewal presented to the Federal Communications Commission.

Earlier Rejection

Already, in a landmark court case, the denomination has gained recognition of the right of church groups to initiate such actions—a position previously rejected by the FCC.

In its novel move to serve as liaison between congressmen and the people about the Vietnam war, Dr. Parker's department last week issued a series of five-minute radio programs, "Congressional Comment," on the subject.

Recorded mostly in Washington, D.C., and distributed free to radio stations, the first batch of 20 reactions went out last week, with another 20 ready to go. About 20 are to be distributed each month, one for each weekday.

"It's essential for Americans to know where their elected officials stand on Vietnam, the cold war, the draft" and related matters, Dr. Parker said.

So far, of about 40 congressmen whose comments have been obtained, most are anti-Vietnam war, he said, but "some are prowar. This is a forum with no strings attached so they can say what they please."

To Your Good Health Inflamed Eyelids Have Many Different Causes

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain a condition called blepharitis? — Mrs. G.M.

The Greeks had a word for it — blepharon, or eyelid. So blepharitis means irritation or inflammation of the eyelids.

The trouble can range all the way from irritation due to wind, dust, smoke or fumes, to a savage infection — it can follow measles; may occur independently from streptococcus or staphylococcus germs getting into the eye; can be a spread of infection from some area near the eyes.

The eyes become red and sore, and there is increased flow of tears. Some types of infection are accompanied by accumulation of pus which may form crusts on the eyelids, and the lids may be stuck together after a night's sleep.

If ulceration occurs, the eyelids may bleed. Chronic infections can affect the eyelashes so they fall out, and if the root structures are destroyed, the lashes can't grow in again.

Since so many causes are possible, each case becomes an individual one. If some irritant can be pinpointed, and then avoided, that may be the basis of ending the trouble.

If it is the invasion of germs, then subduing them is the vital step, and antibiotic ointments make treatment vastly more effective than was the case only a generation or so ago.

Scrupulous cleanliness is essential — and obvious. It is also important to clear up any infection in adjacent areas, as nose, sinuses, or the eyeball proper (conjunctivitis).

A sty, incidentally, is a form of blepharitis in which the follicle of an eyelash is involved.

In some instances in which an eyelid is everted outward — that is, gaps away from the eyeball, usually from a facial scar — blepharitis is common, because irritants and germs invade, and the eyelids (and tears) cannot keep the area safely cleansed. In such cases a type of plastic surgery may be necessary to restore the eyelid to proper shape.

Blepharitis can occur at any age, but there is one type which deserves special mention, blepharitis in the older person. Vitamin deficiencies are often the underlying trouble, so with the older person (and it can be true, occasionally, in younger ones) it is always wise to see whether there is any diet deficiency, so it can be corrected with better diet and supplemented with vitamins if necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there really such a thing as "spring fever"? If it's for real, do you know of any cure? — I.F.

If it is for real, it is the weariness of the doldrums of a long, dreary winter, and triggered by first days that tempt you to just sit.

Cure, for adults: Gardening, housecleaning, sunshine, overhauling fishing tackle, taking off the snow tires. For boys, the cure is girls; for girls, boys.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does wine have any nutritional value? I am anemic and so many people have suggested drinking a small glass of wine — that it makes blood. Is this true? If so, what kind? — E. G.

Yes, wine has nutritional values — mostly sugars, alco-

Alliance Unit Drafts Appeal To Task Force

Presentation to be Made at Session In Madison

OSHKOSH — A small group of city officials met here Friday to work out a package recommendation to be submitted to the Alliance of Cities at La Crosse March 22 — emphasis being on stronger county government.

The Alliance, comprised of Wisconsin's 20 largest cities, will submit its program for improving local government operation and finance to the Tarr Task Force at a hearing in Madison in April.

Headed by Dr. Curtis Tarr, Appleton, the task force was appointed by the State Legislature to bring in proposals for streamlining local government and improving tax-sharing, annexation and other laws and formulas.

Today's workshop session grew out of the last Alliance meeting at Racine in February and was attended by City Manager Angus Crawford, Oshkosh; Mayors William Beyer, Racine; Donald Tilleman, Green Bay; John Kannenberg, Wausau; Robert Rand, Manitowoc; and Otto Festge, Madison.

In one revision of Alliance policy, the group dropped from its tentative package proposal the request to make county administrative instead of elective.

This had been somewhat of a stumbling block at the last Alliance meeting when some officials questioned whether public controversy might develop over taking away the right to elect such officials as the county clerk, treasurer and others.

However, the Alliance study committee today held fast to the general recommendation that assessing be done in a more uniform manner in Wisconsin through creation of a countywide assessing department.

Hide and Seek

Police Hunt Burglar; Burglar Watches Police

A young burglar apparently watched two Appleton policemen late Thursday night and early Friday as they staked out the building he had broken into. The burglar later walked out of the building, undetected.

A patrolman was walking near Morgan School about 11 p.m. when he spotted the man near the rear door of Ray's Tire Co., 531 N. Morrison St. Moments later he saw the man crouched on the roof.

The patrolman radioed for assistance and within minutes police had the building surrounded. They searched the roof and the inside of the building, but found no one. A window was open.

Two patrolmen remained inside the building until about 1 a.m. When police made a check of Ray's Tire Co. at 2:30 a.m., they found a rear door open. The door had been locked at 1 a.m. Police assumed the burglar was in the building while it was being searched and while the two patrolmen were on stakeout.

The suspect was described as being about 17 or 18 years old, with long hair.

Project for Guatemala

Lions to Sponsor CARE Schools

WAUPACA — Children of the Alta Verapaz area of Guatemala, in Central America will, in the near future, have an opportunity to attend classes in a school room, thanks to the Wisconsin Lion Clubs of District 27 B2.

The program is a CARE project and is called "Operation Amigo." The schools will have one-room classrooms, a teacher's living area, a kitchen with room for storage, and a bathroom. The local government, city and state, will provide technical assistance and unskilled labor to construct the schools.

They are an industrious people, Feb. 9, Daniels said, and 16 of the 49 clubs of the District have already responded with donations totaling $633. The goal of the drive is to collect $1 for each of the 1,800 Lions Club members of the District, he said.

New High School

Waupaca Board Ok's School Building Plans

WAUPACA — The board of education Thursday approved recommendations for a school building program which were made recently by Perry A. Tipler, Oshkosh, a school consultant.

Tipler recommended construction of a new four-year high school on the new site purchased last summer and located on the northeast side of the city; remodeling the old high school for a junior high school; building a new elementary school in the King area; discontinuing several of the rural schools operated by the district; and the purchase of more land near Westwood school for expansion purposes.

A time schedule will now be worked out to determine when and which portion of the program will be started first. It is hoped that plans can be completed by November so a referendum can be held at the November election.

The board's recommendation to accept the Tipler proposals will now go to the citizens' committee for discussion Monday.

In other action the board accepted the resignations of Mrs. Marilyn Lauritzen, fourth grade teacher at Riverside

School and James Cote, speech teacher at the high school. Both resignations will become effective at the end of the current school year. The board also named Daniel Lavold, a teacher at junior high, to be the high school baseball coach.
